RUSSIAN TROOPS REGAIN U. S. to Give More Facts of 1,074,146 VOLUNTEERS GROUND AS REVOLT TENDS Germany's Illegitimate Use IN U. S. ARMY AND NAVY of Neutral Diplomats

Convinced that Gen. Korniloff's rebellion is definitely at an end, although the general himself has not formally surrendered, the leaders at Petrograd are setting about the reconstruction of the government. Formation of a new cabinet is said to be well along toward completion.

The submission of so many of the troops and leaders who were adhering to Gen. Korniloff apparently had left the leader of the revolt in a position of helplessness. He is said to have notified the government of his intention to surrender, and the arrival at his headquarters of General Alexieff, chief of staff under Premier Kerensky, one of Korniloff's chief supporters, General Kalladine, chief of the Cossacks, is reported to have been arrested.

Russians Regain Ground

Meanwhile the Russian army at the front, particularly in the northern section, is displaying a fighting spirit according to the official statements is regaining some of the ground recently abandoned to the Germans in the Riga district. Several villages have been recaptured.

French Repulse Germans

Activity on the other battle fronts, except the Austro-Italian where Gen. Cadorna is still fighting determinedly for Monte San Gabriele, is not notable. The Germans apparently were more constructive in the Riga district on the French front, than elsewhere and Paris today reports an attack last night on French positions on the Casenscau river. This was repulsed in hand to hand fighting.

Raid By "Shock" Troops

Berlin reports an action on the Alano front which may be the one alluded to in the Paris Communique. The German statement characterizes the operation as a raid by "shock" troops which cleared the second French line, where heavy losses were inflicted on the French forces.

Again the Berlin statement mentions the artillery fire in Flanders increasing to drum fire intensity which usually heralds an infantry attack. Evidently the Germans are expecting such an attack, but they announce that none has yet been delivered.

The German forces have been on the defensive in one section on the Flanders front, however, and it is claimed by Berlin that on Wednesday night the British were expelled from the wooded district north of Langemark, the Germans taking numerous prisoners in the operation.

At Korniloff's Headquarters

VILLAGE OF POPOVO, NEAR TSARSKO-SELO, Russia, Sept. 13.—Having obtained the only permit issued by the chief of the Petrograd district staff to a correspondent since the beginning of Gen. Korniloff's revolt, The Associated Press arrived early today at this village, which is the headquarters of the staff of a regiment of the guard, which, with two other rifle regiments, is engaged in holding the front opposite the famous "savage" division. The situation here is as follows: Although all danger of an armed struggle is now excluded, the "savage" division is not agreed to surrender on the terms granted by the provisional government last night but it has formally pledged itself not to attack Kerensky's forces. With its artillery and machine gun detachments the division which is composed of the men from the Caucasus is quartered peacefully in villages south of this place without outposts, outposts, sentries or reconnoitering detachments.

Passing within forty yards of the Popovo church are the government troops, but the Kerensky forces also have no intention of attacking as negotiations are proceeding and there is a prospect of a settlement being reached before night.

Russian emissaries and officers constantly are passing into the camp of the Caucasians, carrying proclamations signed by Gen. Popov, the supreme commander, advising the troops of the "savage" division to abandon their officers and march to Tsarsko-Selo. Likewise the tribesmen from the division all the time are coming into Popovo with plans for a settlement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—How Germany's secret practice of using Sweden's diplomatic service for transmitting forbidden communications between German agents and the Berlin foreign office prevailed in Mexico as well as in Argentina, is revealed in a document published by the state department, which passed between the celebrated Herr von Eckhardt, German minister to Mexico, and the chancellor.

Speculation on Sweden's Action
It does, however, raise some speculation as to how the Stockholm foreign office will explain it. Stockholm has declared that Baron Lowen, Swedish minister to Argentina, transmitted messages for Count von Luxburg, the German charge there, without knowing their contents, whether the same defense will be made for Cronholm, is not known; he no longer is in the Swedish diplomatic service. The interesting point, in the minds of officials and diplomats here, is how much the Stockholm foreign office knows of the affair.

Recommended Decoration
Von Eckhardt's letter to the German chancellor recounting the extent to which Cronholm used Sweden's diplomatic privileges for Germany and his recommendation of an imperial decoration for him, is regarded by allied diplomats here as further evidence of their charge that Germany has distributed decorations among the diplomats of friendly neutrals for such services probably in other instances.

Story of Intrigue
Copies of the von Eckhardt letter have been forwarded by the state department to Ambassador Fletcher in Mexico and to Minister Morris in Stockholm, but neither has instructions to present the information to the government to which he is accredited.

Despatches to the government from the Hague dated yesterday were that up to that time the disclosures made by Secretary Lansing of the manner in which Count von Luxburg had used the Swedish minister of Argentina as a bearer of despatches had not been published in Germany. It is not expected that this government will take any further action except possibly to add to the story of intrigue by revealing more documents in its possession.

Letter Intercepted
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Officials and diplomats today are awaiting the next development in the unusual international situation created by the state department's revelation that the Swedish legation in Mexico, as well as the Argentine legation, was utilized by the German government as a secret means of conveying valuable communications to the Berlin foreign office. A letter written March 8, 1916, by von Eckhardt, former German minister to Mexico, who was concerned in the notorious Zimmermann plot, was intercepted by American officials while en route to the imperial chancellor. It discloses that Folke Cronholm, former Swedish charge at Mexico City, was virtually was employed by the German legation to furnish information from the "hostile camp."

The letter asks that the imperial government recognize the services of Cronholm by awarding him the "order of the crown of the second class."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—In the belief that the country does not understand the real strength of the American military and naval forces, Chairman Dost of the house military committee today submitted a report for publication in the Congressional Record a statement prepared at his request, by the committee on public information from government records.

"On Sept. 6, 1917," the statement says, "there were in the regular army, National Guard and reserve corps of the army, 73,835 officers and 741,053 enlisted men. In the navy there were 11,867 enlisted men, 41,473 naval reserves and 14,500 of the naval militia in the federal service. There were 5000 men in the coast guard and 6500 in the hospital corps, making a total of 209,340. Enlisted strength of the marine corps was 28,971; reserves in the services, 1070; national naval volunteers, 704; retired men on active duty, 14. There were approximately 12,000 officers in the navy and 1166 in the Marine corps."

"In other words, on that date the army had, including officers and enlisted men, $19,881 and the navy 251,255, making a total armed strength on that date of 1,074,146 men, all of whom are volunteers. Prior to that time, there was not a drafted soldier in a single training camp. The draft law was approved May 18, 1917."

Find Aged Woman Dead
Sister Unconscious

FALL RIVER, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Robert Dunning, 80 years old, and widow of Robert Dunning, a painter, was found dead in bed early today at the home of her sister, Dr. Lucy C. Hill, a practicing physician, who was unconscious in a room on another floor with gas flowing from a stove near her bed. There were no marks on Mrs. Dunning's body but because of circumstances surrounding her death and the condition of Dr. Hill, Medical Examiner Thomas F. Gunning arranged to perform an autopsy while the police began an investigation on the strength of information furnished by officers who answered the first call for assistance from the home. The exact nature of this report the police would not reveal.

Mrs. Dunning's body was found by Jessie Malcolm, a maid, who was alarmed by a strong odor which filled the house when she went there this morning. Falling to arouse Dr. Hill the maid raced upstairs to see if Mrs. Dunning had been overcome and discovered the body. The first police reports stated that she had died of apoplexy, but this later was corrected by physicians, who said there was not a particle of gas in the room.

Dr. Hill is two years older than her sister. When removed to a hospital, physicians said she was desperately ill, but she rallied and was able to answer questions. Notwithstanding her age, Dr. Hill is strong and vigorous, and while her practice in recent years was limited to patients of many years standing, she always responded to calls, day and night.

Dr. Hill's Statement
Dr. Hill recovered sufficiently at the hospital this noon to make a statement to the police. She said she and her sister, Mrs. Robert Dunning, had lived together for many years. Mrs. Dunning had retired, she heard screams coming from Mrs. Dunning's room. The latter was subject to hysterical attacks. Dr. Hill told the police that she had sister some medicine to relieve her from the pain she suffered. Her sister was in a room on another floor. She then attempted to turn on a small gas heater to give her warmth for the remainder of the night, but that the last she remembered the gas would not ignite.

Further than this the police would not make any statement as to any further information which might be gleaned from examination. Mrs. Hill, Medical Examiner Gunning in a statement this noon said that he would perform an autopsy this afternoon. A bottle containing digitalis was found on the floor near the bed in Mrs. Dunning's room.

Robber Chased Over
Roof By Officer

Patrolman Adelard Cossetto showed signs of activity early this morning when he chased a young man over the roof of a building in the rear of the saloon, conducted by John J. Brennan, at 530 Myrtle street, but the man, who had previously broken into Mr. Brennan's saloon, outdistanced the officer.

The man, who evidently knew the location and entrance to the saloon very well, went through a rear window. Instead of raising the sash from the bottom, he went over the top of the window and while he was making his way about the place Patrolman Cossetto saw him and going to the rear of the building arrived a trifle too late to apprehend him. The man climbed over a roof and got away.

The cash register was opened by the intruder and about $25 taken.

Orders $50,000
Tax Abated

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—The supreme court today ordered the state treasurer to abate a $50,000 tax imposed on the $500,000 legacy left by Edward Ginn, the publisher, to establish a world peace foundation. The court held that the gift constituted a public charity.

The principal work of the foundation is to publish literature and employ speakers to spread the doctrine of settling international disputes by arbitration. Chief Justice Ruggs, who wrote the opinion, quoted as precedents decisions on gifts to secure the abolition of slavery and to benefit fugitive slaves.

Finding that the purpose of the foundation was educational and not political he said:

"The declaration of corporate purpose expresses one of the highest moral aspirations of the race. It is almost the very words of the angels on the night of the nativity."

Lowell Lady Relates How Plant Juice Benefited Herself and Husband

The benefit of good health is obvious to all. The value of a sound mind in a sound body needs no interpretation to people of education and understanding. It is only necessary to show them how these conditions may be obtained and preserved. No extravagant claims are made for Plant Juice, the new herbal stomach remedy, but that it will restore your system to a perfect state of health, I, suffering from stomach, liver, kidney trouble or rheumatism, am backed up by the statements of local people in signed testimonials, who have used this preparation, and are loud in praise of it.

"Take for instance, the case of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lester, who reside at No. 57 Tyler street, and have a wide acquaintance in this city. Mrs. Lester recently gave the following: 'I have suffered with stomach trouble for the past two years, and all the food that I ate would ferment in my stomach and cause gas, and I was in constant pain; the gas affected my heart and it would almost stop beating; I could not sleep at night and got very weak and all run down. My husband had almost the same trouble that I did, and we were advised by a friend to try Plant Juice. The results were most satisfactory and it has restored us to good health again. My husband and I both join in giving this endorsement for Plant Juice, in the hope that it will be of benefit to others who are suffering from stomach trouble.'

intercepted Zimmerman note was addressed. It discloses that Folke Cronholm, then Swedish charge in Mexico, was dependent on by the German diplomat to furnish information from the 'hostile camp' and to transmit communications to Berlin, and that von Eckhardt wanted him rewarded by a secret award from the German emperor of the 'Order of the Crown of the Second Class.'

Letter Written in March, 1916

This letter was written on March 3, 1916, and apparently has been in the possession of the American government for a long time. It was made public without comment, shedding light upon the methods of another Swedish diplomatic representative in this hemisphere at a time when the United States and her allies were awaiting with interest Sweden's explanation to Argentina of the conduct of her minister at Buenos Aires, who transmitted the German 'junk' without leaving a trace of dispatch.

Baron Akerhielm, Swedish charge here, said last night in response to a query that Cronholm was dismissed from the diplomatic service last January. He would not discuss the cause, but there was no intimation that it was in any way connected with Cronholm's relations with the Germans.

Akerhielm Seen Lansing
Baron Akerhielm called at the state department yesterday to inform Secretary Lansing that he had received from his government the statement already given to the public at Stockholm explaining that Sweden has forwarded dispatches from the German minister at Buenos Aires to Berlin in German code without knowledge of the United States and he did not leave a copy of the statement.

It is assumed that the Stockholm foreign office will not address any communication to the American government on the subject. The department's translation of the von Eckhardt letter follows: 'Herr Folke Cronholm, the Swedish charge d'affaires here, since his arrival here has not disguised his sympathy for Germany, and has entered into communication with his legation. He is the only diplomat through whom information from a hostile camp can be obtained. Moreover he acts as an intermediary for official diplomatic intercourse between this legation and your excellency. In the course of this he is obliged to go personally each time to the legation office, not seldom quite late at night, in order to hand in the telegrams.'

Von Eckhardt Advised Secrecy

Herr Cronholm was formerly at Pekin and at Tokio, and was responsible for the preliminary arrangements which led to the signing of the armistice in his country in each case. Before he came out here he had been in charge of the consulate general at Hamburg.

Herr Cronholm has not got a Swedish, but only a Chinese order at present. I continue to submit to your excellency the advisability of laying before his majesty, the emperor, the name of Herr Cronholm, with a view to the granting of the second class being bestowed on him.

"It would perhaps be desirable, in order not to excite the enemy's suspicion, to front with secrecy the matter of the award, should the decision be favorable to my suggestion. This would mean that the matter would be communicated to no one but the recipient and his government, and even to them only under the seal of secrecy, while the publication of the bestowal of the decoration would be postponed until the end of the war. I should be extremely grateful to your excellency if I could be furnished with telegraphic news of the bestowal of the decoration, which I strongly recommend in view of the circumstances detailed above. Von Eckhardt."

Von Eckhardt Long Watched

Officials here are watching with interest the situation in Argentina, where reports indicate that the indignation of both the people and the government has been caused to such a pitch that the government may have difficulty in keeping itself from being forced into breaking relations with Germany, and of being pressed into a sharp controversy with Stockholm.

No representations either to Sweden or to Mexico, it is understood, will be made by the United States in connection with the conduct of the Swedish representative in Mexico City, but it is regarded as not improbable that the Mexican government may make it the occasion for action that would show its earnestness in the matter of neutrality.

On Eckhardt's part in the latest chapter has been no surprise. This government knew of his activities long before the discovery of the evidence given by the Zimmerman note, and since then his activities in propaganda have been watched carefully.

That he was leading a big organization that had for its object not only propaganda but espionage has been suspected, and those suspicions have been conveyed to the Mexican foreign office in the hope that it might take steps that would check any violation of neutrality.

HOUSE PASSES INSURANCE BILL

Officers and Men in the Service are Put on an Equal Basis

Pres. Wilson Wins Fight to Raise Limit on Optional Insurance

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The administration's soldiers' and sailors' insurance bill, amended so as to equalize the allowances of the dependents of enlisted men and officers, passed the house last night.

The vote was 319 to 8. Representatives of New York and Horsey of Maine changing negative votes to aye before the result was announced, amid applause.

As the bill went to the senate last night, privates and officers and their dependents stand on exactly the same basis.

Benefits and allowances now provided for are slightly higher than those originally proposed as the minimum for privates by the committee and considerably lower than the maximum amounts which officers and their dependents would have received.

President Wilson scored a personal victory in the adoption, 141 to 77, of an amendment raising from $350 to $10,000 the maximum amount of optional insurance policies that the government would issue to all the men in the service. The original draft of the bill carried $10,000, but it was stricken out in committee.

Mild Attack a Surprise

The mildness of the attack of opponents of the measure on the optional insurance section caused surprise. It was passed over in a comparatively short time after a formal motion strike it out had been overwhelmingly defeated. This fight, however, will be carried to the senate by the insurance companies. It is understood that the bill is intended to provide a substitute for the present pension law, as it would apply to men engaged in this war; a new system of allotments and compensations which will provide for dependents of the soldiers.

SUGAR HELPS TO OVER-HELP HOOPER, SAYS COME TIRED FEELING WINONA WILCOX

That sugar helps to ward off fatigue is the belief of many authorities. Consumed in fairly large quantities it acts rapidly, its full effects being felt about two hours after taking.

Countless experiments have demonstrated beyond doubt that sugar has remarkable sustaining power when eaten by those undergoing great fatigue.

Scientific experiments carried out with the aid of the ergograph—an instrument for registering accurately variations of muscular power—show that sugar gives an increase in physical power ranging from 40 to 75 per cent. One of the first observers to draw attention to this virtue of sugar was a physician who lived in Newcastle, England.

It is not known, however, who invented or discovered sugar. It has been known since the dawn of history, but not in all countries.

The invention of the first process for refining sugar is ascribed to the Arabs and a Venetian merchant is said to have purchased the secret from them and introduced the process into Sicily.

The over use of sugar, however, is a great cause of ill health, especially among people who do not get enough exercise daily. It is particularly harmful when eaten in concentrated forms, such as candies.

One reason why sugar has a high food value is that it is readily utilized for combustion, and if taken between meals greatly increases the calories and may lead to over-nourishment.

PLEA TO SAVE DOES IN DEER HUNTING

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 14.—The open season for deer is now at hand in many parts of the country and in 15 states the law allows both bucks and does to be killed. In the other states does are protected at all seasons. The United States department of agriculture strongly urges that these 15 states should make 1917 a closed season on does. It points out that about 20,000,000 pounds of venison are produced in a year.

Since the does as a rule average less in weight than bucks of the same age, killing a doe instead of a buck usually means considerably less meat. Furthermore the department points out that the supply of deer will not increase if the breeding stock is killed off. The rapidly with which deer increase when protected is shown by the experience in Vermont, Pennsylvania, and other states, and a doe spared this fall means one more fawn as well as one more doe next spring.

Make Every Deer Count

Several recommendations are made by the department as follows:

Do not kill a spike buck or doe when you can obtain a full-grown buck.

Do not kill deer when weather conditions or difficulties of transportation prevent saving the meat.

Save every pound of meat.

Save the skin and the head also if the antlers are in good condition.

Do not shoot deer at night, or in the water or unless you can clearly see that the animal aimed at is a full-grown buck. Failure to observe this rule usually results in a violation of the game laws and often in the loss of human life.

SHOT HIS MOTHER AND KILLED HIMSELF

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Believed to be insane from overstudy, Philip P. Tyler, 21 years old, a second-year student at Harvard, last night shot his widowed mother, Mrs. Isabella T. Tyler, through the left shoulder, in the Tyler home at 16 Sidlaw road, Brighton, and then turned the weapon upon himself and sent a bullet from a 32-calibre revolver into his right temple. The young man died instantly.

The attempted murder and suicide created great excitement in the exclusive Aberdeen section, where the unfortunate young man and his mother are well known. Dr. Joseph Stanton of 163 Strathmore road was summoned and declared that young Tyler's death was probably instantaneous. Dr. Stanton treated Mrs. Tyler's wound, which is not serious.

LET CONTRACT FOR FIRST U. S. SHIPYARD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Contracts for construction of a government owned shipbuilding yard at Hog Island, Penn., and for the construction therein of 50 fabricated steel merchant vessels, were let by the Emergency Fleet corporation yesterday to American International corporation.

These contracts are the first actually signed for the three new plants in which the government will have built a large number of fabricated ships.

The Hog Island plant will cost slightly less than $20,000,000.

The other contracts will go to the Submarine Boat corporation for a plant at Norfolk and to the Merchant Shipbuilding company for one at Chester, Penn.

The first of the 50 ships will be completed by the American International corporation within 10 or 11 months and the entire number will be finished probably within 15 or 16 months.

Long before the are finished, however, the shipping board in all likelihood will have asked for additional money to build more ships.

Shipping board officials believe that the fabrication of ships will mean that America within a few years will have the largest fleet of merchant ships of any nation in the world.

The fabricating program calls for manufacture of the parts for the ships in the steel mills and only the assembly of their parts in the yards. Some officials believe that fabricating methods will eventually revolutionize shipbuilding.

THREE KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Three persons were killed and several were injured in New England auto accidents yesterday.

Constance Luzzo, 28, of Sandwich, motorcycleist, in collision with auto between Sandwich and Sagamore.

The Sunday Supplement of The Sun published in connection with its Saturday editions, contains an up-to-the minute women's page. Have you read it?

HELP HOOPER, SAYS WINONA WILCOX

Women are always willing to boil potatoes and fry meat. These are short cooking processes. Baking bread is a long process, therefore it was the first housewife's duty which woman thrust out of the home, and the one which is today avoided more than any other by the mass of housekeepers.

Now that the price of our daily bread, as purchased at the stores, is known to be extortionate, women learn that the labor required to make bread is the baker's excuse for doubling its price.

To the cost of the ingredients, bakers add an equal sum as their profit, their reward for doing the mixing and kneading, formerly done by the wife at the home.

The actual cost of the 10-cent loaf is less than 5 cents, according to Washington figures. Hoover says that the 8-cent loaf allows the baker a good profit. The American woman protests in vain when she is over-charged 2 cents a loaf.

Just lately she has learned that bread costs more in the United States than in famine-threatened, war-torn Europe. Authoritative statistics show that bread in Belgium and France costs 40 per cent. less than in New York, and that in England four pounds of bread are to be had for 25 cents, which is about one-third less than in America, where the wheat is grown.

Isn't it about time for the housekeeper to do a good deal more than murmur an objection to the ten-cent loaf?

Woman is the original bread baker, and obviously, she is competent to cut the nation's bread bill in two simply by doing her own baking at home.

She can save 5 cents on every loaf she makes at the rate of a loaf a day to each family, the women of the country could have $400,000,000 to their credit in the banks, at the end of just one year, if they would do for themselves what they are now letting the bakers do for them.

"But we do not want to return to such primitive ways," announces some so-called "progressive" lady. "We want to free the home of drudgery."

Which is doubtless admirable, in times of peace. But just now the business of all civilized people is to free the world of German militarism. This is more important than any other human aim.

To claim exemption from the common service on any grounds is a symptom of mental or moral inferiority.

Such a spirit is unfair to our allies. It is unfair to the armies we are raising. It is unfair to woman herself.

Man, too, was trying to lift the world out of its dreariness, trying to lighten the physical burdens of existence, trying to make living a finer and a better art, when the Hun broke loose.

War sent the artist and the artisan together back to the most primitive customs, trying to dig out of the living out of doors.

By what right can woman cling to the old easier habits? Why should she escape her portion of manual labor?

Woman can control bread prices in this country by going back to the kneading board, just as man has gone back to the pick and shovel in the cause of democracy.

The government has fixed the price of wheat at $2.20 a bushel. It is up to the women of the country to take up the job of reducing bread prices when the government power ceases.

Help Hoover. He says an 8-cent loaf is reasonable.

Don't shrink your share. Madame Housewife, and bread will sell for that, or less!

TO THE PUBLIC OF LOWELL

I have been with you finishing nine years; I am beginning my nineteenth season in Lowell; I am an old timer now without mystery, without magic, just plain high quality woollens at the lowest possible prices.

I am showing tomorrow all the new fads and fancies for this fall, New Battleship Serges, Cantonment Brown, Black Belgian drape for social and church wear. The famous Wanskuk heavy serges, Scotch effects in heather, olives and gray shades, the new plain green, and green stripe touched up with a little yellow, popular for young men, Sherriff's famous silk mixtures and Standish Mills of Plymouth, Mass., the finest and dressiest goods you ever laid your eyes on.

It took genius and daring to do what I have undertaken in the tailoring business this fall in the face of a constantly rising woolen and worsted market. I have planned to keep my prices on newest fall woollens actually as low as a year ago.

This required heavy buying—the heaviest of my history—and I want to tell you that I have already received for my Lowell store, on my tables now, over twelve thousand yards of merchandise for this fall and more to come. These were bought by me before the extreme rise in prices, and I honestly believe that I am the only tailor in New England who can, and will, sell at the old prices this season or as long as these goods last.

To prove the above statement, I want to call your attention to my Blue Serge display in your right hand window entering my store. I want you to look this over—sixty-five full bolts, averaging fifty-six yards to a bolt—just as I received them from the mill—bought months ago. I can sell these goods to Commission Houses today at a 50 per cent. profit without putting a shears into the cloth, but I want these goods, they are scarce today. My customers want them, and I have them for you, at the same old prices you paid me last year.

Signed, MITCHELL.

The Point I Want to Bring Home is That I Am Giving Wonderful Custom Clothing Value for the Money

You know I am doing the business of Lowell today and have done it for years; the same applies to sixteen other cities with Mitchell stores. My weeks today are larger than months eight years past. If the people didn't get values they would not be coming in to me the way you see them coming year after year. I tell you the goods and wearing service is bringing them back and nothing else could bring them.

FOR THIS OCCASION

I'll give you as a kind of commission on your own business a coupon book, value returnable to holder in one year, in labor $12.50 ABSOLUTELY FREE with suit or overcoat order. The next time you buy you come to me as a matter of knowledge, the same as the crowds you know and see coming year after year after year since 1909.

SPECIAL

Mr. Reader, if some morning you wake up and read in the paper how MITCHELL, THE TAILOR, has bought out your favorite tailor, the man who charged you $40.00 to $80.00 for a suit of clothes, I want you to weigh well this fact, that his overcoat does not depreciate one iota in the resuit from his high-priced tailoring establishment to my store, where prices are less than one-third.

Ten days ago a Boston commission house sold me for spot cash, their entire sample consignment from a mill not sixty miles away from here. I cannot mention the name of this firm which sold me the goods, neither can I mention the name of the mill. It is the only restriction placed on me. But I have in my store, in my windows, several styles with original tickets on them, not a yard of this purchase is worth less than $32.50, and some as high as $5.00. I want my old customers to get in on this. They are goods that would be sold by high-priced tailors around $40.00 to $50.00. (Signed) MITCHELL.

LETTER FROM LOWELL MAN NOW IN FRANCE

The first Lowell man to be heard from "Somewhere in France" with Uncle Sam's advance guard on foreign soil is Police Officer John J. Donovan who sends a letter to "The Spillbinder" of The Sun. The letter bears a bewildering number of postmarks, etc., together with the number of the censor who opened it, "6169," and the stamp of the latter in passing it. The letter reads as follows:

Somewhere in France
August 10, 1917.

Dear Spillbinder:
At present I have but little time to write to anyone as there is something to do all the time. We are now under strict army rules and I want to tell you it is no cinch. However, I like it very much and believe thoroughly in the cause. I will write you a letter once in a while and when we get settled I'll make it a long one. As to the war, I can't say anything about it, as we are under a strict censorship and there's no use of saying news that won't get by. Just now as I write I am called for some detail and that is the way with all of us; always something to do all the time.

Back Again

While passing through a city in France not long ago I noticed the sign on a small hotel or inn, "Half-Way Home to Tipperary," and being curious I stole a look in at the window and there sure enough I saw the reason for the sign. The map was on the wall of five of them. We all smiled when they yelled in a rich Irish brogue: "Good luck, boys!" That reminds me, when we were in London after the big parade, the last words we heard were from an old Irish lady who, just as we entered the depot, cried out: "God bless ye all, boys, and good luck to ye!" It sounded good to us.

Give my regards to Mr. McDonnell and all my friends and tell them I am in good spirits and ready to do anything my superiors order me to do. All the Lowell boys here are in good health. Your friend,
Jack.

John J. Donovan.

The censor evidently got in his fine work on the remainder of the letter for the page is torn off at this point. The appearance of the censor's mark or the designation of Private Donovan's command was cut out by the censor.

JAILED FOR CUTTING GIRL AS SIGN OF LOVE

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Nicola Donduna, 25, was sentenced to the house of correction for 15 months for an assault with a dangerous weapon upon Miss Katherine Vellake, 17, of North Hudson st., North End, by Judge Sisk in the superior criminal court yesterday. Miss Vellake told the court that Donduna had threatened to cut her throat because he loved her. She said Donduna visited her home frequently to see his brother, who is married to her sister.

In May Donduna asked her to marry him and she refused, and in June he renewed the proposal and again she refused.

On Aug. 21, she said, he slashed the right side of her face, declaring "there," as he did it. Later he declared he had cut her face because he loved her.

ENDICOTT ACTS TO END LYNN LABOR TROUBLE

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Henry B. Endicott, executive manager of the state committee on public safety, today wrote to workers of Lynn shoe factories, stating the terms on which he would accept their invitation to act as arbitrator in the dispute which has kept twenty factories closed since April. Mr. Endicott said he could not accept unless he received a similar invitation from the employers, and that he would act only if each side agreed that there would be no discrimination, and if the workmen agreed to return to work at once with the understanding that any award would be retrospective.

"In the meantime," Mr. Endicott wrote, "whether I am asked or not, believing that when we are at war the responsibilities of labor differences rest upon both the employer and the employee, I urge both sides to use every possible means in their power to reach an immediate agreement and return to work."

"WALKING SALOON" ARRESTED—CHARGE SELLING LIQUOR TO SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—When arrested on the common law Burkofsky had a suitcase that contained 36 joints of whisky, according to the testimony given in the city police court yesterday, when he was charged with selling liquor to soldiers and sailors of this country while they were in uniform.

The young man told the court he was taking charge of the suitcase for a man who intended to ship the whisky to Maine and did not give or sell any of it to the soldiers or sailors. He was found guilty and his case placed on file.

HOW TO FORCE DROP IN PRICE OF BREAD

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 14.—The one-pound loaf of bread for which the American housewife is charged 10 cents, contains only 4.12 cents worth of materials.

The remaining 5.88 cents go to pay cost of production and profits to baker and dealer.

These figures are not those of the food administration, which has been seeking some means to lower the price of bread to the consumers of the United States, but are the figures of the producing bakers themselves.

They show conclusively that the American housewife can have a 5-cent, one-pound loaf of all wheat bread just as soon as she wants it.

The bakers will not produce it for that, but—

She can bake it herself.

Here are the costs of the various materials entering into bread, as compiled by producing bakers themselves, which show that you get only 4.12 cents worth of materials for each 10 cents you pay for bread. Figures are based on production per barrel of flour.

One barrel of flour.....$11.00
Two pounds yeast at 25c......50
Three pounds salt at 1 1-2c..... .45
Five pounds sugar at 9c..... .45
Four pounds lard at 20c..... .80

Total cost ingredients.....$12.785
From each barrel of flour an average of 312 loaves of bread are made. With 312 loaves costing $12.78, the cost per loaf is 4.12 cents. The baker jumps his cost of production and profits at an equal sum, bringing the cost to the retailer up to 8.24 cents, and the retailer takes what is left of 10 cents per loaf, for his trouble and profit.

It should be stated, however, that the cost of flour to the baker, with wheat at $2.20, should be about $10.50 instead of $11.00 per barrel, and bakers have not been paying 9 cents per pound for sugar.

Don't wish for a good complexion—Resinol will give it to you

If your skin is not fresh, smooth and glowing, or has suffered from an unwise use of cosmetics, here is an easy, inexpensive way to clear it:

Spread on a little Resinol Ointment, letting it remain for ten minutes. Then wash off with Resinol Soap and hot water. Finish with a dash of clear, cold water to close the pores. Do this regularly, once a day, and see if it does not quickly soothe and cleanse the pores, lessen the tendency to pimples, and leave the complexion clear, fresh and velvety. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by druggists.

at 8.24 cents per loaf enables the retailer to get 1.76 cents profit out of each loaf sold.

Granting the fairness of the bakers' figures of 4.12 cents for value of materials in the one-pound loaf—although government experts say that is above actual average cost—it must be apparent that they are piling it on a little heavily when they add 5.88 cents, or 120 per cent, to cover production costs and two profits.

By baking their own bread, American housewives can, therefore, serve a double purpose.

They can keep in the family pocketbook half the money they are now paying for bread, and at the same time bring to bear upon the bakers the only argument they will recognize as to why they should cut their profits on bread to a fair one—the necessity of supplying bread at a fair price if they are to have a market for it.

Food Administrator Hoover, is laboring with the big baking interests to induce them to play fair on bread prices. Many small bakers have agreed to co-operate and are now making a 12 or 14-ounce loaf to retail at 5 cents, or a 20 to 24-ounce loaf for sale at 10 cents.

But the big baking interests, controlling the vast bulk of business in the large cities, have stood pat on a 10-cent price for loaves of 14 to 16 ounces.

The women of the country who have been helping Hoover in his fight against waste in foods, now have a chance to help him as effectively in his fight for a fair price for bread.

Each loaf of bread they bake in their own homes will be a bombshell against the entrenched bakers.

And each loaf will bring an actual cash saving to the housewife.

Bake your own bread—till the price comes down!

CO-OPERATION TO LOWER COST OF FOOD

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Legislation and proclamations intended to restrain the disposition toward exorbitant prices can have only temporary and imperfect results because they touch only superficially, if at all, the fundamental cause of extortion. Peter Hamilton, vice president of the Lawyers' Mortgage Co. of New York, said in an address here today, Mr. Hamilton discussed "What Co-operation Can Do and Is Doing in Lowering Food Costs" at the national conference of the world's food fair being held under the auspices of the American academy of political and social science.

Mr. Hamilton emphasized a distinction between producers and consumers' co-operation, holding that the former has for its underlying motive the making of excessive profit and the raising of prices. Consumers' co-operation, he said, is born of a pressing necessity to reduce costs.

Mr. Hamilton described the inauguration of co-operation by the Moundville pioneers in 1834 and its development throughout the world, asserting that the co-operator will succeed in bringing down food prices where the legislator, the reformer, the socialist, the syndicalist and others have failed.

"Security of supply, greatly increased demand, one or both, are the legitimate immediate causes of high prices," the speaker said. "Monopolistic artificial scarcity induced by withholding supplies from an eager market, cupidity, employing one pretext or another, are the immediate causes of extortion. But back of monopoly, back of cupidity and chicanery, is the selfish motive of private profit. It is for this that men cheat each other and descend to all the unfair practices which have puzzled legislators and reformers. This is the fundamental cause of extortion and sharp practice between men and between nations. Indeed, if complete analysis be made, it is the cause of war itself."

"Our legislators and reformers are like the old fashioned practitioner, frankly treating symptoms with strong measures and not effecting a cure. The socialists, on the other hand, are good diagnosticians. They know the cause but they are short on therapeutics, and their remedy would be likely to throw the patient into fits. The syndicalists, known in this country as the Industrial Workers of the World, have, like the socialists, diagnosed the cause correctly, but their remedy would be the knife, a radical surgical operation at whatever risk to the patient."

"The co-operator is the only one among these economic doctors who has the correct diagnosis and whose remedy will effect a cure by removing the cause without unduly upsetting the patient. He knows that the disease is chronic and must be subjected to a long course of treatment adapted to the patient's constitution. He does not believe in excessive doses, which may disturb the digestion and nervous system of the invalid. His purpose is a complete cure, but he realizes that he need not hurry faster than he can absorb and assimilate. Thus will he succeed where the others have failed and the outcome is not in doubt though the time of its full accomplishment may be deferred."

Mr. Hamilton said that in the United States co-operation has made slower progress than in Europe, but that it would now probably develop rapidly.

ALDERMAN WOOD OF HAVERHILL INDICTED

LAWRENCE, Sept. 14.—Three indictments against Alderman Roswell L. Wood of Haverhill, alleging malfeasance in office, larceny from the city and violation of the statute which prohibits a municipal official from selling property to the city, were returned by the Essex county grand jury here yesterday afternoon.

The indictments are the outcome of an investigation conducted into the affairs of the Haverhill street department while Alderman Wood was at its head. The alderman is now in charge of another department, a change having been made in the reorganization of the government at the beginning of the present year.

Alderman Wood will be summoned to appear in court next Monday to plead.

The indictment alleging sale of property to the city while holding an official position involves the purchase of two horses. The larceny charge covers an item of $36.19, which was paid the Boston & Maine railroad for freight and car service, the allegation being that the money was owed in reality by Wood himself.

The malfeasance indictment contains five counts. One refers to approval of the above bill and the second is of a similar nature, it being charged that Wood approved of a claim of $165 for freight and car service which should have been paid by John Cashman instead of the city.

The other three counts set forth that Alderman Wood induced bills in town hire and labor presented by James Cotter, Jennie M. Sheehan and Max Blotner & Co., knowing that they were excessive and unlawful.

interviewed by a reporter. "I am glad," said he, "that the suspense is over and now when the case comes to trial I will have my say. I have been in politics 25 years, two years as councilman, two years as an alderman, three years as mayor under the old form of government, and six years as an alderman under the new form of municipal rule.

"During that 25 years of public life I have, of course, made political enemies. The present year no sooner began than reports were current all over the city that they had got me, and, of course, these reports caused my wife and family much anxiety. I have gone along about my municipal work the same as usual.

"These indictments do not trouble me in the least, and I will ask for a speedy trial as soon as I am called upon to plead, as I feel that I am entitled to that. I am sure I will be a candidate again this year for the municipal council. From what I have learned about the indictments, I do not fear anything and I am confident that when the trial is held and I make my side of the case plain, there will be a story different than what some of my enemies would have the Haverhill public believe."

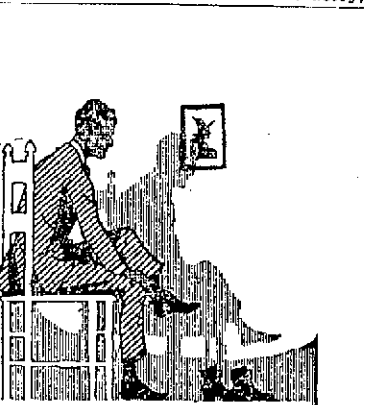

Lieut. William H. Root, who last Monday filed his resignation as a member of the municipal council, as he is now enlisted in the 102d regiment, Field Artillery, last night said, "I understand I started all this, but I am working for the United States government now and am absolutely out of politics and not in a position to say anything. I am done working for the city and all these things are of the past."

The first indictment for the sale of two horses to the city while Alderman Wood was at its head is understood to involve a pair of horses purchased by the pack department five years ago, the horses having been sold by the foreman, who conducted a stable after Wood was elected an alderman.

FOOD LABORATORY TO TEACH HOUSEKEEPERS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 14.—Establishment of a national food laboratory to teach the housekeepers of the United States how best to buy and to prepare food was advocated by Charlotte Perkins Gilman, of New York, in an address she delivered here today before the National Conference on the World's Food called by the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"As we have experiment stations to establish standards and gather information for our farmers," said Mrs. Gilman, "so we should now establish at least one national food laboratory,

Lemon Juice For Freckles

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for a few cents. Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quart of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

An experiment station for the benefit of the housekeeper. Such a laboratory should be in charge of men and women of the highest ability. From an authoritative center like this should be distributed accurate information as to food values and prices, with bulletins for special localities and seasons.

With an expert buyer with the most expert handling of all the valuable by-product of this great industry, now so wastefully mislabeled as "garbage" with very small cost refrigeration facilities, with such arrangements with dairymen and local market gardeners as would be easy with large and steady orders, with a persevering department to take advantage of surplus materials, and with all accounts carefully kept and freely published, we should at last be in a position to know what really is the cost of living.

"With what conscience can we persist in a method of industry which, in kitchen service alone, wastes the labor of nine women out of ten? If all house service were professionalized, done by trained specialists with proper organization and mechanical conveniences, we could release the labor power of 80 per cent of our women.

"Counting that labor at charwomen's wages, $500 a year, allowing fifteen out of twenty million women as working housewives, the released labor of four-fifths of the fifteen, namely twelve million, would be worth $6,000,000,000 a year.

"Their product value would at least equal their wages, another $6,000,000,000 a year. If the average American family now spends $500 a year on food, and if the saving was but two-fifths, or $200, there would be another $4,000,000,000. This gives a pleasing total of $16,000,000,000 which in an extreme hypothetical case we might save each year.

"No such sudden and universal change of system is to be expected. It would not be desirable instantly to eliminate a whole complex business as the retail food trade. These large estimates are given to show the importance of the food problem, and the enormity of the waste involved in our primitive method of treatment.

"The most important thing is the establishment of suitable means to coordinate the scattered efforts, and the next is for our housekeepers to recognize the imperative duty of the change of method in this industry."

BIG CONFERENCE ON HIGH COST OF LIVING

A people's convention of organized labor and organized farmers, called by the National Nonpartisan League, will be held in St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 18 to 20, inclusive, to fight the high cost of living.

For the first time in the country's history, organized labor and organized farmers are joining hands to eliminate their common enemy, the needless parasitic intermediaries between consumers and producers and the monopolists. The feasibility of necessary limitations of price-fixing will be discussed by economists and statisticians of national reputation, who will analyze the cost of production of the staples of life and prices now charged under alleged open competition, and data presented will be given the government to aid it in fixing such prices.

At least 20,000 delegates are expected and a program feature will be an address on the "Conservation of Wealth" which Mr. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has been invited to deliver. Among the organizations participating in the conference are:

The National Nonpartisan League.
The American Federation of Labor.
The National Grange.
The Equity society.
United Mine Workers of America.

The conference is being called to enable farmers and representatives of other working classes to discuss the common problems of producers and consumers.

If high prices for wheat mean starvation for the children of the poor, the farmers of the northwest are willing to give up out of the earnings of their own sweat and toil, but the farmers want to be sure that the money that comes out of their profits does not stick in the pockets of greedy millers and middlemen.

This is not merely a farmers' problem. This is a consumer's problem. There seems to be an effort on foot in this country today to set one class of workers over against the other. The effort is being made to prove that the city workers have no interest in common with the farmers; that the only way to get cheap bread is to give the farmer less for his wheat; and that the only way the farmer can reduce his cost of living is by making the wage-worker take less.

If this game is not blocked, it will reduce production in every line. It will discourage the farmers from producing big crops and it will make labor discontented and inefficient. A full program will be announced in a few days.

The National Nonpartisan League.

BROCKTON LAWYER ENDS HIS LIFE IN OFFICE

BROCKTON, Sept. 14.—Atty. Albert M. Rollins, aged 41, of 276 Prospect street, committed suicide in the Barter building, 231 Main street, yesterday, by shooting himself through the head with a 38-caliber revolver, bought a few minutes before his death, caused by overwork, is believed to have been the cause.

Mr. Rollins was born in Maine and had lived in Brockton 11 years. Soon after he came here he acquired an extensive law practice and at his death had the reputation of handling large estates and trust funds than any other lawyer in Plymouth county.

Mr. Rollins was the organizer and first secretary of the Economic club of Brockton, one of the first men interested in the Morris Plan bank in Brockton and a director of the bank, a trustee of the People's Savings bank one of the organizers of the Brockton School for the Blind, the first president of the Central Relief association, a trustee of the Porter Congregational church and a frequent contributor to many charities. He was a member of the Massachusetts bar. He is survived by his wife and his daughter, Harriet, aged 8.

U. S. ARTILLERY
FIRST TO FRONT

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, Wednesday, Sept. 12.—(By The Associated Press.)—American guns are booming in France, booming under the eyes of observation balloons, with airplanes to trace each singing shrapnel shell, each missile of high explosive destructiveness.

Thus far the guns have not been turned against the enemy, but there is every likelihood that the artillery will beat the infantry to the front, for it is planned to complete the intensive training of the gunners under actual battle conditions, under the fire of German guns, and with their own guns directed against occupied German trenches in various positions behind the enemy lines.

Use Infantry Next

While the plans of the American commanders are unknown, it would seem logical from a military standpoint that after the artillery has completed several weeks of training in France in liaison with the French infantry and supporting guns, the greater part of it would be withdrawn for maneuvers with the gradually multiplying American infantry.

The co-operation of artillery and infantry is so close under modern battle tactics that it is essential they should be trained to act together almost as one unit. And just as the first contingent of American infantry will devote itself largely through the fall and winter to training other units as they arrive, so the first contingent of artillery will train the batteries, regiments and brigades which will be thrown into France before the spring campaign of 1918 is likely to begin.

Crews All American

While it is not known here what announcements may have been made from Washington, the arrival of a large section of American field artillery in France has been kept a carefully guarded secret so far as Europe is concerned. The announcement is permitted now, only after the officers and men have completed their intensive training under general supervision of France's most expert artillerymen.

There are no longer any French officers or privates serving the guns, the crews having been Americanized throughout. At the observation posts and in the schools of instruction French officers sit now only in an advisory capacity.

Old Tactics Abandoned

Through various reports received from trained observers, attaches and other confidential sources during the past three years, the American artillery officers of the regular army have been enabled to keep fairly close touch with all the gunnery developments in the world war—sufficiently close, in any event, to change many of their older practices within the past 12 months, while at the same time keeping them abreast with the more modern theories of the various artillery schools.

What the American artillery has now, and never had before, is plenty of it. It is enthusiastically officers and men, whose batteries are expanding within two or three weeks 10 times

Given French 75s

Modern artillery training is a maze of technical details, a labyrinth of mathematical problems, a never-ending series of intricate puzzles, in which such elusive and subtle subjects as orientation, triangulation, deflection, drift, elevation, calibration, meteorology, range finding and a dozen other branches of optics and geometry and the general application of the concentrated powers of destruction are involved.

In beginning the fulfillment of its contract with Washington the French government has supplied the American artillery units with the latest output of the famous seventy-five, which is the light field piece the world has ever known. It corresponds to and takes the place of the old three-inch gun in the American army.

The French have supplied the Americans with six-inch howitzers—a gun of great power and accuracy which corresponds to the noted German 5.9, probably the most effective weapon in the entire German gun list.

The Americans have been quick to master the details of the French weapons and are handling them now as if they had been friends of many years' standing. Under the watchful supervision of splendid old French major who speaks English, as it were his own tongue, they have taken down and reassembled the two types of guns with which they have been training, so that the most minute details of construction and the particular use of each part, no matter how small, has become thoroughly known. The mastery of artillery as a whole, however, is a matter of months, rather than weeks, and there still remains much for even the first American artillery contingent to learn.

The work of co-operation with balloons and airplanes has only recently been started. The airplane service has attracted many of the brightest young officers in the artillery, who are practising now to qualify as observers.

Push for Air Service

The American chief of artillery in France recently gave each officer of the lower grades an opportunity to indicate his preference in any special branch of artillery work. It is striking evidence of the spirit of the expeditionary force that an overwhelming majority expressed the desire to become airplane observers, which is the branch of the service holding undoubtedly the greatest hazards.

The French artillery planes, which are being used for training purposes, have twin engines and great wide-spreading wings, giving them wonderful stability, although when occasion requires they sidestep, stall, spin and spiral in a fashion that would fill the ordinary fighting scout with envy.

MITCHELL, THE TAILOR,
CLAIMS SUPREMACY

Today we announce the great fall and winter opening of 1917 and 1918 which is now rounding up our 19th season of the most wonderful bargains that we have been able to give the public in clothing, custom made. We have had our business increasing steadily and rapidly since our first entrance into the city and this year has by far surpassed our previous business. We know how and where to buy the goods from the best manufacturers at prices that are always right and satisfactory. We also know how to make garments that will fit and also wear, at prices that will allow our customers to have two suits of clothing for about the prices charged for one suit by others.

By some Mitchell, the tailor is called the wizard tailor of New England because he is like, in a measure, Heron, the magician who could make things appear and disappear; so with Mitchell the tailor, they make clothing that is a mystery to everybody but the merchant tailor.

Jack Healey is the local manager in his line of business. The fact is that he does make clothes that have style, finish, workmanship and durability and that is what everybody is looking for.

His motto is, "We lead and let who may follow." Our prices have become, with the well-known word, "If you are a householder, you are a bargain hunter looking for values and bargains as well as style, Jack Healey is the boy. He will not only tell you the story but he will deliver the goods to you.

Ten years of successful, active and profitable business and fair dealing has established to the citizens a fact that he has been a real public benefactor and is the father of high grade tailoring, always at low prices.

Last week was a banner week for receiving orders at his establishment and this week with quality and prices ranging at the popular mark, he expects to rival his business of last week and in connection with that has a kind of a side issue as an inducement with his new system added to his already popular price he is giving an order absolutely free to his patrons, a card which permits them to have their repairs and pressing free.

Careless Use of Soap
Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best, most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mild soap (not soap), and (which is pure and harmless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use. One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rises off easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and even oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly. It leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

About every two weeks Jack springs some original surprise that is always appreciated by the patrons and his always genial and happy disposition makes him easily entitled to the name of Prince of Good Fellows.

Jack invites his many friends and former patrons to call this week and inspect his enormous fall and winter stock of suitings and the old 12.50 that ever popular price, will make his establishment look, if signs do not fall like a place where there is a run on a bank.

If you want to see how far you can bowl a dollar down the store, just give us a call. Read his advertisement in this paper.

The financial institution which provides funds to people of character under fair conditions and at reasonable cost.

If you have a number of bills in different places, get them all together and secure a loan to pay them. It will make you feel better and the fellow who gets the money will appreciate it also. Under our plan you could pay all your bills and only have one place to come and pay and our easy repayment of $1 a week for every fifty dollars is the solution and everyone is satisfied.

Did you ever think that by paying $1 or $2 a week you can put in your winter's supply of household necessities, such as coal, food, clothing, etc.

Of Fall and Winter SUITINGS, OVERCOATINGS

We've Prepared Some Wonderfully Good Values For This Sale

WE'RE breaking records at Lynch & Lotto's; last Saturday the best September day we ever had and the week a record breaker. Naturally there's a reason besides the good weather. We modestly assert we are selling the best clothes made and are naming lower prices than you can purchase for elsewhere.

THE enormous business we did last Saturday and Monday is a glaring testimonial to the values we offered. We wish to thank those who bought and for the benefit of the many who have written us to reserve a suit or overcoat at these prices we wish to state we are going to continue this sale until the $5000 stock we bought at panic prices, way below the cost of production, is sold:

WE are making all our clothes in our mammoth daylight workshop, journey-men custom tailored, paying twice the price for tailoring ever paid by any popular priced tailor in New England. We don't send our clothes to ready-made contractors in Boston, all our clothes bear the label of the local Journeymen's Custom Tailors' Local 103, of Lowell. The best piece of goods in the world is no good unless it is properly tailored—Our tailors are all skilled tailors, yet we don't charge you as much as you pay for a cheap, ready-made suit of cheviot, cassimere or soft shoddy cloth that breaks and tears easily.

WE don't ask you to buy, but we do ask you to look over the mammoth purchase of virgin wool productions of strong, all wool worsted, serges, meltons, etc. Never sold below $25 to $35, for this sale $15.00. With $5.00 Pants Free.

ASSISTANT POSTMASTER HELD FOR THEFT

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 14.—Seward E. Emmons, assistant postmaster at Lewiston, charged with embezzlement of $2000 of government funds, was held in $500 bail here yesterday to await action by the September grand jury, after pleading guilty. He gave bail, Emmons' pecuniations were made in small amounts over a term of years, according to an investigation made by Inspectors C. C. Hart of Worcester and Tennyson Jefferson of Waterville.

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 14.—Seward E. Emmons has been assistant postmaster here more than 10 years. He is a son of Capt. Seward P. Emmons of this city. He has been in the postal service ever since his graduation from the Lewis and Clark high school in the early '90s. He was first a railway mail clerk, later a postoffice inspector and then assistant postmaster, being appointed to the latter position by ex-Postmaster William T. Smart.

TAKE 12 TO CAMPS FROM STATE PRISON

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—For the first time in the history of Massachusetts penal institutions men were yesterday transferred from the state prison in Charlestown to outdoor camps. Col. Cyrus B. Adams, director of prisons, announced late yesterday afternoon that 12 men were transferred to the camp at West Rutland from Charlestown. They will be employed on public highways and in land reclamation work. Heretofore transfers have been restricted and men only have been moved from houses of correction and reformatories to these outdoor camps. The honor system is in vogue generally at the camps and have proved successful, Col. Adams said. The director expects to transfer more men, as he can provide outdoor work for them. He cited one case, called to his attention by Deputy Director Edward C. R. Bagley, of a prisoner who drives an auto truck from Framingham to Gardner frequently without guard. The camps are at Framingham, Rutland, South Royalston and Gardner, and there are more than 100 men in the four combined. They live in portable houses and enjoy many conveniences, including heat, shower baths and good food.

DUTCH TO OFFER SHIPS FOR COASTWISE TRADE IN EX- CHANGE FOR FOOD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Joost Van Vollenhoven, head of the Dutch mission, conferred with Food Administrator Hoover yesterday on the food situation in Holland and the status of Dutch ships loaded with foodstuffs held in American ports.

The mission is expected to present a new formal proposal offering a large amount of tonnage for use in American coastwise trade in exchange for food shipments. Holland, with the other Northern European neutrals, has received no foodstuffs from the United States since the American government took control of exports nearly two months ago.

MUNITIONS MEN IN ROW OVER RUSSIAN RIFLES

JERSEY CITY, Sept. 14.—In an answer filed yesterday to the suit brought by the New England Westinghouse company of Springfield, Mass., for $120,000 alleged to have been lost through breach of contract for the manufacture of 1,000,000 rifles for the Russian government, the Crucible Steel company of America set up a counter claim for $813,000. The Crucible company alleges that after the Westinghouse company had paid it $120,000 to apply on the contract for rifle barrels the contract was canceled and that it thereby lost $813,000.

FATE OF CHADWICK STILL IN DOUBT

An official report from the commanding officer of the squadron with which Oliver M. Chadwick of this city was connected still leaves his fate a matter of uncertainty. The report is as follows:

Corp. Oliver Chadwick, after having passed with great facility and speed his commission as pilot at the Aerodrome of Pau, and followed a course of aerial shooting at the School of Cazaux arrived at Air Squadron N. 73 on July 29, 1917, from the G.D.T. His notes of becoming very rapidly a brilliant fighting pilot (Pilote de Chasse). Full of ardor, at the same time serious and cool, he was quick to work to know thoroughly the sector in which his squadron was destined to operate. He wished to avail of every element of success. After a few trial flights on Spad machines, he took part with his comrades in the fighting patrols and was at once singled out for his cleverness and courage as a pilot.

On Aug. 14 he started out at 9 a. m. with four of his comrades. This patrol, at about 9.45, in the region southwest of the forest of Honsthal, delivered battle against a hostile squadron. An English patrol also took part in the fray. During the battle, Chadwick, seeing an English aeroplane attacked by an Albatros, rushed in the rescue. At the same moment he himself was attacked from behind and undoubtedly hit him. At this very instant his machine in fact was seen to drop to the ground under no control whatsoever. It fell close by the Carnot farm, over 1200 metres north of the village of Bixchoote.

The French lines then comprised the last houses north of Bixchoote, and the machine fell exactly between the two lines (no man's land). The machine was found Sept. 11, 1917.

My wife, Millie L. Buxton, having left my bed and board, I will not be responsible for any bills she may contract hereafter. Sept. 11, 1917.

GEORGE E. BUXTON.

Intact, with the corpse of a German soldier alongside, but no trace whatever of Pilot Chadwick. It is therefore possible that he was killed by a shot during the combat in the air. It is also possible that he was only wounded and that the enemy was able to make him prisoner. I am quite unable to give any absolute decision on this point. The above information has been gathered from the infantry corps who assisted at the combat and took part in the attack. Signed, Officer Commanding Squadron N. 75, Aug. 25, 1917. ROOSEVELT GOES UP IN
LIBERTY MOTOR PLANE

MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt gained yesterday the distinction of being the first civilian to make a flight in an airplane propelled by the new military motor invented for use of the government in the war. The flight was made from the Hempstead aviation field, and for a half hour, the machine, piloted by H. J. Blakely, an army instructor, attained a speed varying from 90 to 110 miles an hour, reaching an altitude of 5000 feet.

The colonel arrived at the aviation field just as Blakely was "tuning up" the "Liberty" motor for a test flight, and he immediately asked to be permitted to accompany the instructor. Blakely informed Col. Roosevelt that he had not yet had an opportunity to test the motor and advised him to wait until he had made a trial flight and that then he would be glad to take him along as a passenger. The colonel assured Blakely he was not a novice at flying, having flown with Archibald Hoxey at St. Louis.

"You needn't make a trial flight without me," the colonel told Blakely, "I am willing to go along, unless you object."

The ex-president climbed into the airplane and they were off. They flew over Camp Mills, where the "Rainbow" division is assembled, and to Garden City, where Blakely executed a "spiral" for the benefit of army and navy officers and their families who were watching the flight.

When the airplane landed the colonel put Blakely on the back and told him how immensely he had enjoyed the experience.

PRES. WILSON GREETED AT NANTUCKET

NANTUCKET, Sept. 14.—President Wilson, enroute in the yacht Mayflower, paid a visit to this island yesterday. Accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and his daughter, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, he arrived from New London, Conn., early in the afternoon and was given a cordial informal greeting.

Borax Bill Says

BLANKETS never shrink when 20 Mule Team Borax is used in the water. Same thing with flannels, sweaters, etc. You need Borax when you wash woolens, because it's the Borax with the soap that gets the dirt out of the fabrics, makes them sanitary and helps to retain their soft texture and prevent shrinking.

As news of his coming had preceded him by a few hours, the entire population of the village, including the school children, who had been given a holiday in honor of the occasion, welcomed him at the landing.

The first to meet him was Justice John H. Clarke of the United States supreme court, and immediately after permanent residents and summer visitors took advantage of the opportunity to extend a welcome. There was little formality and no speechmaking, but the secret service men relaxed their strict guard to some extent during the visit and many of the islanders were permitted to have brief neighborly chats with the president undisturbed for a short time.

Later President and Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Sayre were driven across the island to Siasconset, where the Sayre family are spending the summer. As automobiles are barred, the journey was made behind a pair of spirited horses. It was an experience, the president remarked, that he had not had in years, and he appeared to enjoy thoroughly the long drive with its occasional glimpses of the sea.

At Siasconset the welcome given him in this villa was repeated. Later the president, having of late on the beach with his grandchildren, who he had not seen in several months. After dinner at the Sayre residence President and Mrs. Wilson returned here during the evening and went aboard the Mayflower, which soon after put to sea.

LUXBURG SAVED
FROM MOB

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 14.—Count von Luxburg, the German minister, whose passports were sent to the German legation by the Argentine government because his objectionable messages to Berlin through the Swedish foreign office had rendered him persona non grata, dodged threatening crowds which were awaiting him on his arrival at Buenos Aires from the interior yesterday.

Count von Luxburg was persuaded by the police to leave the train at San Martin, 12 miles outside, when news of the crowds that had gathered at the Buenos Aires railway terminal reached the train.

The chief of police was on hand with his automobile at San Martin, together with a large guard of secret service men, and the count was conveyed to his home in the chief's car.

"What Has Happened?" He Asks
"And these are my friends, the Argentines!" he exclaimed to employees of the legation who met him.

"What has happened?" he asked. "I know absolutely nothing. What has happened?"

The count, however, although shown the Washington messages of last Saturday exposing his suggestion that Argentine ships be sunk without leaving a trace, and his aspersions upon the acting minister of foreign affairs of Argentina, ignored an invitation to deny their authenticity.

The foreign office had no information yesterday as to when Count von Luxburg would leave Argentina or what route he would take on his journey.

The general opinion in diplomatic circles is that von Luxburg will go to Paraguay, to which country he is also accredited as minister, provided Paraguay agrees.

President Trigoen has given permission to Count von Luxburg to remain in Argentina for a brief period so that he can arrange for his departure without serious inconvenience, and has assigned an officer of the army to act as his aid.

The president has expressed himself bitterly against the anti-German demonstrations in Buenos Aires and the riots of Wednesday and has ordered the chief of police to begin an immediate prosecution of the police captains of the three downtown districts, where the disturbances were most serious, on the charge of failure to obey orders to perform their duties.

Heavy Guards Protect German Banks
Heavily armed guards protected the German banks all day yesterday.

The minister of war has offered to place army units under police orders to prevent any repetition of Wednesday night's rioting.

Several policemen are among the wounded in the hospitals.

The Swedish colony here, after a long discussion of the Washington exposure of the Luxburg affair, which involved the Swedish legation, has given out the following:

"We protest against the person or persons whose unusual procedure has created the uncomfortable and difficult situation in which the Swedish colony today finds itself, and we express the most complete disapproval of these measures on the part of Sweden, which violate the most sacred rules of neutrality."

Crowds Demand Break With Berlin
Thousands of persons congregated last night along the Avenida Mayo and Florida in an attempt to organize another anti-German demonstration and to demand a rupture of relations with Germany.

Acting under the orders of President Trigoen, however, squads of mounted police were sent out to maintain order.

They frequently charged crowds that endeavored to assemble, using their sabres freely. Many citizens were injured and a number of police also received hurts.

The crowds raised news stand of editors of the German paper La Union, and also took copies from newsboys in the streets and made bonfires of them on street corners.

The activity of the police during the evening prevented large crowds from concentrating at one point in the city long enough to do serious damage.

CONCORD'S SMALLEST BABY
CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 14.—The smallest baby born in this city, whose weight at birth, early this week, was 2 1/2 pounds, is doing well at the Concord Hospital. The infant is the daughter of Mrs. Heathco, who is chief chambermaid of the local navy recruiting station.

Everybody who has read The Star's Sunday Supplement, published on Saturday, has words of praise for it.

Straw Hats Called in Officially
Saturday, Sept. 15th

Don't be caught with a Straw Hat on after today—and listen—it's almost as bad to be seen wearing last season's soft or stiff hat. Other years the styles and colors changed so little you could get by without being detected—but this season the styles and colors are so different anybody can pick this season's hat in a minute.

Comparatively few men want or need a finer piece of headwear than the WILSON HAT, made from extra fine materials—and extra fine workmanship. The fine finish and correct and graceful style of the WILSON HAT appeal to the most fastidious men, while its extra value is apparent at a glance.

TOLD WAR LIKELY TO END IN 90 DAYS

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—"I have been told at Washington by army and navy officials that the war is likely to end within 90 days," said Mayor Curley yesterday at the luncheon given in his honor at the Copley-Plaza by the officers of the British-Canadian recruiting mission.

"But I fear that it is not, and I agree that we must go ahead with the idea that the war is to be a long one. I am going to devote every second I can spare to aid you in carrying on your work."

The mayor also stated that he is satisfied from information coming to him from Washington that within the next 60 days the allied nations will be permitted to draft all their citizens now residing in the United States and eligible for military service. The machinery of the British and Canadian governments is all ready to begin this work, he said.

It was announced by Lieut. Col. John S. Dennis, in charge of the New England district of the recruiting mission, that a platoon of the Fifth Royal Scots of Canada and two bands will arrive in Boston within two weeks to take part in the vigorous campaign to encourage voluntary enlistments.

Through their efforts and with the aid of the mayor, who has promised to assign Grand Army men and Spanish war veterans employed by the city to work with them, they will appear at dozens of recruiting rallies in various sections of Greater Boston. Col. Dennis believes that within the next month fully 5000 men will have been forwarded to the army depots in Canada and England.

Of the 25 men accepted for service yesterday, 12 volunteered after hearing the speakers in front of the British-Canadian tent on the common.

Housewives of this city now look forward to Biddy Bye's tips on cooking and culinary art which appear each week in the Sunday Supplement of The Sun, published each Saturday.

Most Old People
Are Constipated

The wear of years impairs the action of the bowels. As people grow older they restrict their activity, neglect to take sufficient exercise, and indulge a natural disposition to take things easy. The digestive organs become more sensitive to the demands made upon them and rebel more quickly.

It is of special importance to the health of elderly people that the bowels be kept normally active. A mild, yet effective, remedy for constipation, and one that is especially suited to the needs of old folks, women and children, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It costs only fifty cents a bottle, and should be in every family medicine chest. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

OPERA HOUSE
One of the best hits of character thus far shown by any member of the Emerson Players at the Opera House is the portrayal this week of the rich and influential brewer by Robert R. Laurence in "The Trail Holliday." In all of his stage creations, George M. Cohan seems to get closer to real life than any of the other big producers. In his selections of characters he very seldom creates them, but rather picks them up from every day life and presents them just as they are. And in so doing he has created a very popular character in "The Trail Holliday," the role of "Tex" who is just such a character as the small villages and towns of the east. It's the kind that uses his influence and wealth to push things to his own liking and was to those who dare oppose him. Mr. Laurence's treatment of the part is praiseworthy and he wins for him many new friends. As fights any way to win, he is especially character of the pampered son who takes much but not very little in also commendable.

Next week the attraction will be Edward Childs Carpenter's big musical "The Cinderella Man," in four acts. The piece has been much talked of and promises to make a pronounced hit. Ed Childs and all of the cast will make it a successful, ticketable now commencing.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC
Who his audience at the Academy last night was over 400. Leonard, Lawrence and Al. Belmonts in "A Night at the Carnival." Many witty interpretations of the various characters and the big chorus in natty, new and varied costumes quickly won favor. Many new and catchy songs were rendered and thunderous outbursts of applause forced continual encores of the musical numbers rendered.

"A Night at the Carnival," the present bill, is by far the best laughing comedy novelty presented at this popular theatre for a long while and bids fair to attract large crowds as a result.

Gorman's Merry-makers will remain over for the second week, offering two new jingling comedy successes, with special matinees daily for ladies and children.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14. — Beans take their place this year as one of the country's most important and valuable crops. Forecast of production in the five important bean-growing states—Michigan, California, New York, Colorado and New Mexico—announced by the department of agriculture yesterday in a special report show 19,968,000 bushels, compared with 18,448,000 bushels last year and 10,231,000 bushels in 1915.

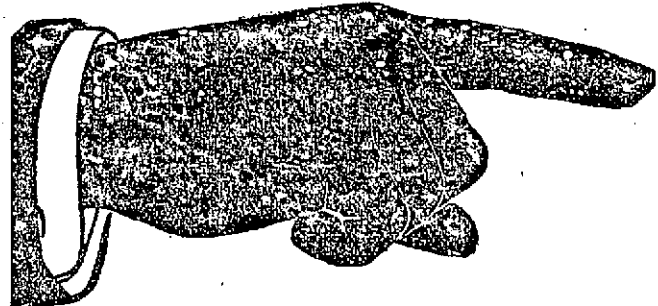

More than 1,500,000 acres were planted to beans in these states, and the average farm price being paid for them on Aug. 15 was $7.24 a bushel, compared with $4.60 on that date last year. At the Aug. 15 price the production of beans was worth about $165,000,000. No estimate was made for the production in other states.

They were accepted through the local regular army office in Central street. Frank Duleza of a Fay street has been accepted for the infantry of the regular army and will leave this city tomorrow.

Co. 57 of the State Guard held its regular drill at the armory last evening. A large number of drafted men were on hand to receive instruction in military drill.

Dr. William F. Ryan has received orders to report to Fort Ethan Allen in Vermont as soon as possible. The doctor received a commission of first lieutenant in the medical corps about a month ago. He will leave for his new post within a few days.

The committee on public safety of Billerica has appointed a local committee to keep in touch with the whereabouts of Billerica's soldiers. Gov. McCall has established a soldiers' information bureau at the state house and from this information concerning every enlisted man of the state may be obtained. The Billerica committee will meet this evening in the town hall.

SLIGHTLY BURNED
Emile Leclair residing in Rogers street was slightly burned about the right arm while at work at the Newton Mfg. Co. early this morning. The ambulance was called and he was taken to St. John's hospital where he received treatment.

BERLIN, Sept. 14, via London.—German "shock" troops yesterday penetrated as far as the second French line west of Guignicourt, on the Aisne front, and inflicted heavy losses on the defenders, according to the official statement issued today by the German war office.

In Flanders the artillery battle increased to drum-fire, the announcement adds, but no English attack developed.

The general staff reports that on the night of Sept. 12-13 the British were driven from the wooded section north of Langemarck, on the Belgian front, and that numerous Englishmen were taken prisoners.

COTTON CONSUMPTION DURING MONTH OF AUGUST WAS 569,351 BALES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Cotton consumption during August was 569,351 bales compared with 567,750, a year ago. Cotton on hand Aug. 31 in consuming establishments was 1,178,803 bales compared with 1,363,135 bales a year ago, and in public storage and at compresses 744,069 compared with 917,578 a year ago.

Cotton spindles active during August numbered 33,430,016 compared with 32,298,103 a year ago.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Representatives of 100,000 organized milk producers accepted today a proposal by the food administration that they make only month to month contracts with distributors pending a promised reduction in the prices of cattle feed. Semi-annual contracts will expire in a short time.

Food administration officials believe that stabilized grain prices and limited profits for millers will cut feed prices before Jan. 1.

Milo D. Campbell, president of the National Milk Producers' Federation said today there was little doubt that dairymen would approve the monthly contract plan.

STRIKE IN PACKING HOUSES SETTLED

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 14.—The general strike of the packing house employees was ended late yesterday afternoon when the strikers accepted a proposal outlined by Patrick C. Gill, federal mediator, which had been previously agreed to by the packers. The men returned to work at 7 o'clock this morning.

The employees were awarded recognition of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers of North America. The agreement was signed by each of the heads of the packing houses and also by Mr. Gill.

The agreement included a 21-2-cent an hour increase in wages, recognition of the organization, permission to advocate the principles of union labor as laid down by the American Federation of Labor, reinstatement of strikers, hiring of all employees by a centralized employment bureau, the right of discharged men to appeal to the superintendent and the right of employees to send grievance committees to the employers.

The Sunday Supplement of The Sun published every Saturday contains a red-hot sporting page contributed by leading sporting writers of the country.

HOLD UP SHIPMENT TO SWEDEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Accidental discovery that wire nails in a consignment for Sweden were covered with lead caps caused the custom authorities today to hold up a shipment of 200 cases of the nails. The smashing of one of the cases by a passing truck on a Brooklyn pier led to the discovery. It was said there was enough lead on each nail for the manufacture of a rifle bullet and that the application for shipping license contained no mention of the lead, simply stating that the cases contained wire nails. The cases have been standing on the pier for about three weeks. The investigation will seek to determine whether the lead was placed on the nails as a subterfuge to get the needed war material to Germany or whether it was there for some legitimate purpose. The lead caps are described as fitting loosely and easily removable.

PUNISHMENT OF GENERAL KORNILOFF

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Gen. Korniloff's punishment seems one of the points concerned in the formation of a new Russian cabinet. Unofficial reports reaching here today indicated that Premier Kerensky was determined to inflict a heavy penalty as a warning against future uprisings, but certain elements of the constitutional democrats, and even many leaders of the council of workmen's and soldiers' delegates, Kerensky's closest political friends advocate leniency.

It is considered probable that one early move of the new government may be to abolish the duma, which has given some evidence of favoring a return to the monarchy and has opposed many democratic reforms of the revolution. The Maximilists or Bolsheviki, a radical anarchistic group, probably will continue to receive governmental recognition.

INSURANCE BILL LAW BEFORE ADJOURNMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Plans for adjourning congress without some action on the soldiers' and sailors' insurance bill, were much discouraged today by an unauthorized announcement that President Wilson would insist that the measure become law before congress quits. There is strong sentiment in the senate for closing up business and letting the bill wait for the December session. The question will be taken up with the president when he returns from his yachting trip.

"SPURLOS VERSENKT"

Day by day the proof of German ruthlessness, German mendacity, German outwary, grows. Day by day the indictment against kaiserdom mounts and mounts, until all the world—except Germany—is appalled. Drop for the moment their barbarous cruelties in wantonly and purposefully bombing hospitals, which hitherto have been held immune even by semi-savage races, and just consider how the masks have been torn from the faces of the German diplomatic liars in the past few months—in each case through American instrumentalities.

Our own state department revealed that while we were still at peace with Germany, Prussian intrigues were trying to bribe Mexico and Japan to wage war on us. Caught with the goods, the Germans cynically avowed that it was perfectly proper in time of peace to prepare for war against a friendly power by seeking to enmesh it in the toils.

In the past few days an American newspaperman, working in Russia, has revealed the telegrams exchanged between Kaiser "Wilhelm" and Czar "Nicky." In these, Wilhelm Hohenzollern, who has constantly and lyingly tried to shift his own blood-guilt to others by averting that other nations started the war, was revealed as striving for a temporary alliance between Germany, Russia and France, whose object was to isolate Great Britain and make that country an easier prey for the war Germany desired to make upon her. That object achieved, the turn of France, of Russia and of America would have come later—if they stood in the path of German ambitions. Again and again German apologists have attempted an alibi as to the reasons that impelled them to violate the neutrality of little Belgium. But in these telegrams the kaiser was revealed frankly stating to the czar that in case of war between Germany and Britain, he would invade and seize Denmark if it became necessary for his objects.

And in the past few days, once more due to our own state department, has come another revelation of German methods and of German barbarity. The German charge at Buenos Aires, knowing he could not send cables to Germany over his own signature, sent them through the medium of the Swedish minister to Argentina.

The crime is both Swedish and German. The excuses so far offered by the Swedes show the extent to which they are non-plussed by the sweeping revelation. It was a flagrant breach of neutrality, that definitely places Sweden as an ally of Germany.

But the graver crime is that of Germany. That country had a dispute with Argentina about the sinking of the latter's ships. While the two nations were at peace, while Count Luxburg, Germany's minister, was the guest of the Argentine people, he was recommending that in the future, if Germany wanted to sink Argentine vessels, they be "tracelessly sunk!"—"spurlos versenkt!"

That can mean only one thing; not only blow up the vessels, but kill the crews, so the disappearance of the ships will forever remain a mystery. Nothing more cruel, more cold-blooded, has been revealed even about Germany.

Just as Bethmann-Hollweg's contemptuous reference to the treaty with Belgium as "a mere scrap of paper" will always be a blot upon Germany, so will Count Luxburg's dastardly policy of "spurlos versenkt." Such things as these can never be excused, can never be palliated, can never be forgotten. The Luxburg policy is not only a policy of murder; it is a policy of murder by stealth and by night. It is the policy of a nation that assassinates and seeks to hide the evidences of its crimes, so that it may not be arraigned before the bar of international justice.

THE STOCK MARKET
Stock prices have tumbled lately. But they haven't tumbled far enough to produce anything resembling a "panic," and they are not likely to. The spectacular drop in many standard securities has been due partly to the activity of a group of Wall street wreckers—more respectably known as "bears"—and partly to the sincere fear of many investors that the taxing of war profits is going to make their holdings unprofitable. The work of the wreckers and of the timorous investors alike has had a good effect. Stock values were dangerously inflated. Now that some of the fictitious or accidental value has been squeezed out of them we're getting on a safer basis. The period of readjustment of prices and credits is difficult, but it doesn't last long, and it leaves our finance, industry and commerce more stable. Congress is not going to take all the war profits, as so many capitalists have feared. It is clipping the wings of the biggest profiteers, but no more than it should in fairness to the general public, and not enough to put any serious obstacle in the way of legitimate business development. Profits as well as patriotism remain to inspire our captains of industry to do their best. And the country's economic situation is fundamentally as sound as a rock. We have enormous crops, sufficient for all our needs and those of our allies. Our transportation difficulties have been largely cleared away. Our people have employment at record wages. Our industries are working at full blast, under the spur of huge war orders, and great public purchasing power. Many manufacturers profess to see danger in the arbitrary lowering of prices for war supplies. That procedure merely prevents certain groups of capitalists from piling up undeserved fortunes. The general effect is excellent. Our government and our allies are enabled to save large sums in their purchases, thereby conserving their resources and strengthening their credit. That improves the whole economic situation.

HETTY DIDN'T SPECULATE

The methods of increasing her wealth employed by the late Hetty Green have been coming out plainly in court of late, as the state appraiser of New York makes decisions as to the taxation of her estate.

Mrs. Green's son, who took care of much of her business, stated on the stand: "Mrs. Green's business activities consisted in the investing and reinvesting of her principal and income and the care and conservation of her investments. She never speculated or bought to sell. She was extremely cautious in making investments, and what she bought she ordinarily retained. For the most part she invested in bonds secured by mortgages or other interest-bearing or dividend-paying securities." Hetty didn't speculate. She didn't buy to sell. Needless to say, she did not buy on margin. She did not buy stocks of which she knew nothing. She didn't play the market to get something for nothing. Her money was used where it was needed. And come to think of it, did any great fortune made on the market ever last? Not one of the big American fortunes was based upon a gamble. They were founded on a vision of service. Every man who has made big money—really big money—has seen before him a need of mankind which the future would increase, and he has set himself to be ready to satisfy that need. Furs, land, sugar, meat, gasoline, transportation—there is not one of the great fortunes which does not answer to this analysis. Some of the methods employed by some of these men and institutions are more than open to question. But the basic fact at the root of all money-making is service.

HAVERHILL HAS A SCANDAL

The grand jury of Essex county, after a probe of municipal affairs, has found an indictment against Alderman Wood for alleged malfeasance, while in charge of the street department. Mr. Wood had been mayor for five years previous to the adoption of the commission form of government. It is alleged that he sold horses to the city in violation of the statutes and approved bills which were "illegal."

The situation in reference to the commission form of government in Haverhill is much the same as in Lowell. The commission is too small, too expensive and too difficult to dislodge. In their present state of mind the people think a city manager will give relief, but this is but another fad from the west that will prove as much of a disappointment as did "the commission of five men who were to sit down as would the directors of a bank and in quiet conference conduct the city's business with wisdom and despatch." Oh! what an awakening when the commission conference is found to be a three by two squabble all the year round with personal interests always paramount.

FIX THE PRICE OF BREAD

Mr. Hoover has been talking of bringing down the prices of food but very few have been able to detect where any of his productions have been made good. He now has fixed the price of wheat and there should be a basis of fixing the price of the one pound loaf of bread. Mr. Hoover says six cents would be enough for it. We'll take it at that figure Mr. Hoover. Now go ahead and do the necessary fixing. There is no single thing on which there is more need of a fixed price than on the matter of bread and particularly the sixteen ounce loaf. At the present time the price ranges from ten to twelve cents or more, according to the baker who sells it.

The Germans have made a good beginning in their Russian advance, by crossing the river Aa. But they've got a lot of alphabetical and geographical obstacles to overcome before they get to the Zz.

SEEN AND HEARD

Shoes are soaring higher, in price and otherwise. How anxious the children are to get the first new lesson in school! The preserve closet will be shy on tomatoes at $2.50 per bushel. Straw hats have been called in. Trade off the old for new feds. 'Tis easy to see there are more than "old maids" knitting nowadays. Jack Frost raises the price of corn in Chicago and tomatoes in Lowell. Jack Frost called earlier than usual this year and played havoc with the tomato crop. Some people are said to have faulted while others are merely troubled with idiosyncrasies. Many farmers refuse to cut their hay because they cannot sell it. There are few horses now.

Heard in the car: "Were you cold in school yesterday, May? Yes, I was almost frozen, Ida."

Vacations which are being taken in September this year may be productive of more harm than good.

The man who continues to wear his straw hat after the cool weather comes on is not necessarily a hero—he may be broke.

One lesson which this war is going to teach us before we get through with it is that the individual doesn't amount to so much in the general scheme of things as he thought he did.—Ohio State Journal.

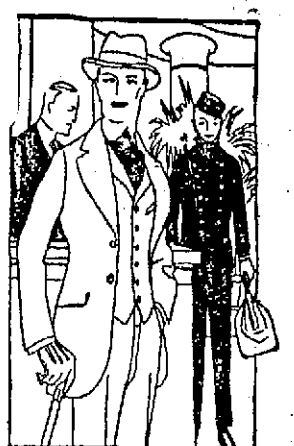

Said one woman to another: "I would like to know why my street is swept up only in spring and fall and yours is manicured every day." "Ask Mr. Morse," said the woman living on the manicured street.

A Huge Dinner Can "What's that?" asked the visitor, indicating the enormous spread. "Dinner," replied the Scot. "Some can, too," was the astonished rejoinder. "You must have communal dinners in this town!"—Youth's Companion.

Sound Logic

"Mamma," said a five-year-old boy the other day, "aren't there any other senses 'cept hearing, seeing, feeling, tasting and smelling?" "No, my child," answered the mother. "It is usually considered that these five are enough."

"Well," said the little one, with an air of deep conviction, "if a man talking would be called a sense if there wasn't so much nonsense about it!"—Pearson's.

The Alien

An alien born, I cannot claim Full portion in your stripes and stars; I cannot share your storied fame, Nor reap the glory of your wars, I know no Father of the Land, No Lincoln come to set men free, For I am of an alien land, Yet crave to fight for liberty.

I know no dear and honored past, No heroes of the rugged years, When lives were in the balance cast, And victory came thro' blood and wars. Across the sea-spawn I was born; An alien brother of the free— My heart leaps up to hail the morn When I can fight for liberty.

A scion of a war-cursed state Where might stalks by with clanking sword, I bent in terror and in hate— An atom in a servile horde, But at your welcome when I came Across the wide and restless sea, My soul leaped in me like a flame— I, too, would fight for liberty.

Oh, let me stand beside your sons To learn the duty of the hour, To face the foeman's deadly guns, And help to crush his cruel power, I crave to show the love I feel For you, my brothers of the free— You let me share your country's weal— Let me defend its liberty!

The Flag in France

By John S. McGroarty
The flag is in France with its silvery stars And the ripple and flame of its crimson bars, 'Mid the shot and shell of the wild advance, In the thrust of the day and the night's red scars, In the grip and shock and blood of the wars, And the hell and slaughter—the Flag's in France.
They are long-lost voices that called it there, With the roll of drums and the trumpet's blare, To the fields where the lilies with blood are wet— The fields of France that were once so fair.
The death-blackened land of Rochambeau where With the dust of the lilies, lies Lafayette.
Look up, O dead, from the desolate vine, Awaken, O memories of Brandywine! Loved sister, near spent in the desperate throes, Look up to the sun where their sabers shine, Who came with their Flag to the battle line To pay the deep debt of the Long ago Youth and its flower, O France, you gave— Now spirit for spirit, and grave for grave, We have sent our sons through the To live or die, danger, and death to brave, To fight for Freedom, to succor and save— The Flag is in France where it longed to be. —From Los Angeles Times.

Women Happiest at Forty

The happy, joyous age of woman-kind is not sweet sixteen, neither is it twenty-five nor thirty, but between the fortieth and fiftieth milestones of life, according to Mrs. Herbert J. Garmon, president of the State Federation of Women's clubs, says the Boston Post.

While many matrons giggled and some actually laughed outright, Mrs. Garmon explained the situation as follows: "The right age for women is between forty and fifty," she said. "A woman of that age can talk to a man, and if he is a good man he doesn't think you are trying to flirt with him." Mrs. Garmon concluded by adding that "it is a good thing to be a good, middle-aged woman."

KAISER AND HIS HUH IN LONG CONFERENCE ON POLISH SITUATION

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The German crown prince has arrived at Berlin, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam. He has had a long conference with the emperor regarding the matter of the Polish situation as mentioned in the pope's note.

COLLEGE OPENING POSTPONED

WORCESTER, Sept. 14.—The opening of Clark college has been postponed from Sept. 19 to Sept. 26. The college authorities announced that this was due to the fact that many students are employed on farms and that many other have been drafted. After the next quota of drafted men has been sent to the cantonment at Ayer it will be possible to determine more definitely how many students will be able to resume their studies.

WHO KNOWS GEORGE MILES?

A Mrs. George of 604 West avenue, Buffalo, N. Y., has written to The Sun asking that an effort be made to find one George Miles "whose father was a Unitarian minister." Mr. Miles is between 45 and 50 years old. There is no such name listed in the city directory and it is probable that the man is not in the city at the present time. No further information is given in the communication but anyone who knows anything of the man in question should notify Mrs. Buckley.

SUFFERED NINE YEARS

Many Remedies Tried in Vain. Well and Strong After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Spartanburg, S. C.—"For nine years I suffered from backache, weakness, and irregularities so I could hardly do my work. I tried many remedies but found no permanent relief. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt a great change for the better and am now well and strong so I have no trouble in doing my work. I hope every user of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will get as great relief as I did from its use."—Mrs. S. D. McABEE, 122 Dewey Ave., Spartanburg, S. C.
The reason women write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved. This is a praiseworthy thing to do and such women should be highly commended.

MAKE UP OF NEW FRENCH CABINET

PARIS, Sept. 14.—The new French cabinet contains a new ministry at first called the ministry of propaganda, but later changed to minister of missions abroad. Owing to the absence of Franklin Bouillon, the new post is not listed with the other ministry designations in the Official Journal. The new ministry consists of 15 titular ministers, four ministers of state and eleven under-secretaries. The new ministers are divided among five senators, eleven deputies and two, Louis Louchet and Albert Clavelles do not belong to parliament. The eleven under-secretaries are all members of the chamber of deputies. Sixteen of the new cabinet members have been ministers or under-secretaries in previous cabinets and three are former premiers. The political groups represented in the new ministry do not include the unified socialists. Premier Painleve represents the socialist-republican group, while the socialist-radicals have three members, the radical left three, the republican union of the senate two, the republicans of the left one, and the radical republic union seven members. Seven members of the Ribot ministry retain places in the new cabinet. The most noted perhaps of the Ribot ministry to go are Rene Viviani and Albert Thomas.

In the new ministry, Urof. Paul Painleve in addition to becoming premier will continue to act as minister of war. The other assignments follow:

Foreign affairs — Alexander Ribot; Justice, Raoul Peret; Interior, Jules Steeg; marine, Charles Chaumot; munitions, Louis Louchet; finance, Louis Lucien Klotz; colonies, Rene Besnard; transports, Albert Clavelles; education, Daniel Vincent; labor, Andre Renard; commerce, Etienne Clémenceau; agriculture, Ferdinand David; provisions, Maurice Long; for missions abroad, Franklin Bouillon.

Four ministers of state who are also members of the war council are Louis Barthou, Leon Bourgeois, Paul Doumer and Jean Dupuy.

AUSTRIA - HUNGARY IN DIRE STRAITS

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—The Freie Zeitung of Berne publishes an article from a high Austrian official, who recently traveled through several sections of his country, in which the writer states that Austria-Hungary cannot hold out the coming winter, owing to economic reasons, as both soldiers and civilians will be starved. He gives several reasons, notably the almost complete destruction of the crops in the richest regions of Hungary by the cold and the heavy rains which could not be transported owing to lack of rolling stock, which, first of all, is utilized for military purposes. In the meantime, he says, the necessities of life are mounting to extraordinary prices.

Hungary with Germany

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 14.—Dr. Alexander Wekerle, the Hungarian premier, expounded the government's program at a meeting of the Hungarian chamber, on Tuesday, says a Budapest dispatch. The foreign policy remained entirely unchanged, said the premier.

"The foundation stones of our foreign policy," continued Dr. Wekerle, "are our allegiance to our allies and co-operation with them in all respects. We are united not only in the defensive war which was thrust upon us, but also as to its final aim, namely the harmonious joint conclusion of a suitable, lasting peace."

"We were first, in agreement with the German empire, openly to express our entire readiness to conclude such a peace. This readiness of ours was solemnly confirmed by the peace resolution of the German reichstag. We even gave a broad outline of the conditions of an understanding by declaring that our defensive war is not aimed at any conquests whatever, that we oppose an economic war between the nations, and that we are striving for a durable peace which will not be detrimental to our interests, and to avoid the recurrence of war. We even consider it desirable that brute force in the international relationship should be replaced by moral empire of right. We recently also expressed grateful recognition of the Holy Father's efforts which have this aim in view."

"Our extreme readiness can naturally only meet with success if it meets with desirable recognition in the enemy's camp. Failing this, we will wage war to the utmost, conscious of our strength and with our resolution fortified by the recent successes of our troops, thereby saving in the end not only our vital interests but also the blessings of a lasting peace and a mutual understanding."

FATIGUE NEARLY OVERCOMES WOMAN

"Bringing up several children in the right way and caring of home brought me to the verge of nervous prostration," says a well-known woman. "Feeling that I might become ill and have to give up housework and the care of my little ones, created a nightmare that was ever before me. I happened to mention my affliction to one of my neighbors and she advised me to procure some Phosphated Iron. A day or two later when I was feeling unusually miserable I sent my daughter to the drug store for a box of the capsules and after ten days' treatment I felt like a different person altogether. I sleep well at night, something I hadn't done in months before; my appetite is good and in fact what formerly seemed like mountains of work in my home is now more like play. An aunt of mine living over East has been taking Phosphated Iron with equally gratifying results."

Phosphated Iron is put up in capsules only. In this locality it can be obtained at Fred Howard's, the druggist, Lowell Pharmacy and leading druggists everywhere.

RUSSIANS REGAIN GROUND

Gen. Korniloff, told the Associated Press today that "the situation shows steady improvement." Continuing, he said: "Gen. Korniloff has not surrendered but he is quite prepared to do so and is in a position of complete powerlessness. We have just received an order of surrender from 12 companies of Korniloff troops who say they have been deceived and misled by the Bolsheviks. We have Don Cossacks, who, with his Don Cossacks being a menacing movement against the government, has been checked." We expect that he soon will be taken."

A Petrograd despatch to Reuters' Limited under date of Sept. 14, announced the arrest at Rostov of Gen. Kaledines.

Korniloff Agrees to Surrender

PETROGRAD, Sept. 13.—Gen. Korniloff has communicated to the government his intention to surrender on the arrival of Gen. Alexioff, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies at Makhilov at which place he is due this evening.

Gen. Krymoff Arrested

PETROGRAD, Sept. 13.—Further evidence of defection in the ranks of the Cossacks from Gen. Korniloff is given by the arrest near Luga of Gen. Krymoff. The council of soldiers and workers' delegates sent a deputation to the troops to explain the situation whereupon the Cossacks declared that they were ready to arrest their commander provided an order was received from Premier Kerensky. The council telegraphed to the premier, who ordered Gen. Krymoff's arrest. He submitted without resistance and was brought to Petrograd. The Cossacks of his command have joined the government forces in the Luga garrison.

Railway service between Luga and Petrograd has been resumed.

Normal Conditions in Russia

PETROGRAD, Sept. 13, 7 p. m.—Although the revolt can be considered formally ended only after the announcement that Gen. Korniloff, the leader, has actually surrendered, the capital and country already show signs of recovering their composure and are attempting a new process of reconstruction.

The provisional government actively is taking necessary measures to restore the interrupted economic and social life and provide the fundamental difficulties which inspired Gen. Korniloff's venture remain, hopes are expressed that the cabinet which is now under reconstruction, will, in future, show greater vigor and decision.

Last night the director of communications, M. Liverovsky, was able to announce that railroad communication had been restored on the Warsaw-Windau and other interrupted lines which today resumed the transport of freight.

Premier Kerensky today issued an order giving to the military governor of Petrograd, who temporarily is General Paltchinsky, special powers with regard to the press.

Petrograd Calm

Petrograd has entirely recovered its calm, a remarkable effect of the suppression of the revolt being that the panic rush from the capital, caused by the fall of the Baltic port of Riga, has ceased, and the railroad stations have recovered their normal appearance. On the bourse, where only private deals are transacted, there was a sharp rise in securities.

From Moscow it is reported that refugees have begun returning to Petrograd. Doubtful elements in the provinces who certainly would have backed Gen. Korniloff had he succeeded in his revolt are passing resolutions in support of the provisional government and in condemnation of the revolt.

Take Lesson from Revolt

The new cabinet is rapidly progressing towards completion, though friction again has arisen between the constitutional democrats and the socialists. The constitutional democrats at a meeting last night announced to Premier Kerensky that the government must take a lesson from Gen. Korniloff's revolt by removing the causes and not repeating the mistakes which caused it. Otherwise, they said, Gen. Korniloff's adventure would be repeated by someone else.

Revolt Caused By Dissatisfaction

The revolt, declared the constitutional democrats, undoubtedly was the fruit of extreme dissatisfaction existing in

Quit Russian Cabinet

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Petrograd correspondent of Reuters' Limited states that Vice Premier Nekrasoff has informed the press that he and M. Terestchenko, minister of foreign affairs, have decided to leave their posts in the cabinet, considering that their participation in the government narrowed their political horizon, and being only business ministers without party support, they did not possess sufficient strength in the cabinet. The vice premier also announced the withdrawal from the cabinet of M. Pleschakov, minister of food and supplies.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 14.—The provisional government, according to the Russian official news agency, has sent an extraordinary special commission to the Russian army headquarters in the field to investigate the Korniloff affair.

PROF. OLNEY SPOKE

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Discovery of a new treatment of sawdust waste whereby it could be converted into charcoal which would enable sugar planters to put on the market a sugar equal in color to the refinery product but at a somewhat lower price, was announced to members of the American Chemical society yesterday by C. E. Coates of the State University of Louisiana. Mr. Coates' paper was read at the closing session of the annual convention of the society.

Professor Louis A. Olney of the Lowell Textile school said that the textile industry of the country was in better condition than ever before and that American-made yellow and red dyes were being used.

"Devoted to the Screen"

The evening newspapers declare that Premier Kerensky reproached the constitutional democrats for their passive attitude so long as Gen. Korniloff seemed to have a chance of success. The premier has commissioned M. Kishkine to negotiate with the Moscow industrial circles for their support of the government and, if possible, the entry of business men into the cabinet. If this plan succeeds the cabinet undoubtedly will be much strengthened and the bad results of the revolt may speedily be remedied.

HIGH SEA FLIGHT, CALLED "GERMANY'S LAST HOPE," COMMANDED BY SCHEER

Unless the German submarines increase greatly their depredations, many experts said, the Kaiser's government would send the "high sea fleet" in a last desperate effort to gain control of the seas. The German fleet is commanded by Admiral Reinhardt Scheer.

ADMIRAL SCHEER

who is considered one of the most capable tacticians in the German navy, and is regarded as a man not only of force, but also of ideas. He was for a long time employed as director of the general marine department at the admiralty, and he has also held command in the active service as chief of staff of the high sea fleet and as commander of a battle squadron. He succeeded Admiral von Pohl.

CONGRESS PLANNING TO ADJOURN OCT. 1

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Preparing to wind up the present special session of congress in short order, the leaders of the two houses are awaiting the return of President Wilson before fixing a definite date for adjournment.

As soon as the president reaches the capital a committee of democratic senators will advise him of legislative conditions. Meantime the $11,000,000,000 bond bill, the conference over the war revenue tax measure and half a dozen odds and ends that can be speedily disposed of will wait upon the result of the White House conference.

The president is very anxious to have the soldiers' insurance bill, which is one of the most important measures ever contemplated by any government, passed without delay. In the senate there is a disposition to indulge in unlimited debate over some of its provisions.

If the president insists, the bill will be passed without further loss of time, all of the congressional plans for an adjournment by Oct. 1 will be remedied, and the session will run along to pretty nearly the time for it to meet again in regular session.

Despite the president's anxiety for the soldiers' insurance legislation, the impression prevails among the leaders of the upper house that he will consent to the plan for an adjournment by Oct. 1.

The $11,000,000,000 bond bill was reported to the senate yesterday by Senator Stone, who signalled his reformation by assuming charge of the measure and indicating he would press it for immediate passage. If the president agrees to let the insurance bill go over, the bond bill can be disposed of in two or three days. Otherwise it will be placed on the regular calendar to await the mood of the senate.

The war revenue bill can be disposed of in three or four days, after the conference committee report.

DEPARTURE OF NEW YORK'S FAMOUS SEVENTH REGIMENT

SEVENTH, ONE OF NEW YORK'S "TET" REGIMENTS, MARCHES AWAY TO WAR

The Seventh, one of New York City's most famous regiments, marched down Fifth avenue toward France between vocal walls of cheering friends. In the departure of the "Judy Seventh," commanded by Col. Willard C. Fisk, shown in the pictures, even those whose acquaintance did not extend to members of the regiment seemed to sense that the city itself was marching forth to war.

There was more of the personal element in the farewell to the Seventh than in the greeting that the city extended to the Twenty-seventh division on its "farewell" parade not long ago. Even after five months of war New York finds it easier to think in terms of regiments than of divisions.

Yielding to the intimate spell, men after men darted through the jam of spectators and thrust out a hand to grasp the arm or slap the shoulder of a departing infantryman. The hails to individual marchers that continually pierced the din of the general farewell showed that war has put the woolen sock on the regiment which a few months ago was known to some as "the silk stocking regiment."

The departure of the seventh differed from all the other parades of late in that the dense crowd along the line of march to the 23d street ferry planned with the troops. Twenty-third street, one of the city's widest thoroughfares, was packed, and when the regimental band marched with swiftness into the ferry building playing "Auld Lang Syne" there was standing room only in the spacious plaza facing the North river freight and passenger buildings.

At the ferry building the police, who had not underestimated the possibilities of the occasion, simply had to content themselves with looking dignified and acting as amiably as they knew how.

The crowd swarmed all around them. Thousands of women—mothers, wives, sweethearts and sisters—clad in blue uniforms by seeking protection at the hands of the khaki clad boys and in that way slipped through the gates leading to the ferryboat. They turned back, however, at the boat, and only a few actually crossed the river with the soldiers. The waiting rooms on both sides of the ferry were jammed.

The Jersey Central terminal, where the regiment entrained, was a repetition of the spectacle. The crowd of parents, friends and relatives was overjoyed when the railroad officials opened the gates leading to the special troop trains, permitting thousands to say goodbye to their particular soldiers. Here farewell receptions were held till the trains pulled out for Camp Wadsworth, Sparta, N. J.

Exports of merchandise in July, 1917, reached the lowest record since February, 1916. For the month of July the exports of merchandise amounted to $374,000,000, against $750,000,000 in June, 1917, and $445,000,000 in July, 1916. For seven months ending July, 1917, exports amounted to $2,664,000,000, against $1,291,000,000 in 1916. The total export for the 12 months ending July, 1917, were valued at $8,221,000,000, the high record for any 12-month period, against $2,353,000,000 in 1916. The twelve months preceding the breaking out of the war.

Imports of gold in July, 1917, were $27,000,000, and $505,000,000 in the seven months ending July, 1917. Exports of gold in July were $89,000,000, and $772,000,000 in the seven months ending July, 1917. Imports of gold were $42,000,000, and exports $357,000,000 in the 12 months ending July, 1917, an excess of $550,000,000 in imports.

Marched with the troops. Twenty-third street, one of the city's widest thoroughfares, was packed, and when the regimental band marched with swiftness into the ferry building playing "Auld Lang Syne" there was standing room only in the spacious plaza facing the North river freight and passenger buildings.

LIMITED ADVERTISING OF THE UNION MONOPOLY SHORE LIBERTY FOR AMERICANS RESTORED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Secretary McAdoo's statement to the senate finance committee on the war credits bill indicates that the paid newspaper advertising campaign for the next issue of Liberty bonds, advocated by the publishers' associations, will not be adopted.

Limited newspaper advertising at the most is possible, Secretary McAdoo stated. He advised the committee that only one bond issue between now and the December session of congress is planned or possible.

"It may be necessary to use some advertising," said Secretary McAdoo. "I do not know whether it will be in newspapers or in some other form."

He stated that the publishers' program of $2,500,000 for paid periodical advertising could not be adopted because it virtually would take the entire available expense allowance for floating the bonds.

Mr. McAdoo also said that members of congress could greatly assist in the forthcoming effort by going home and campaigning for the bonds.

That the cost of floating new issues would exceed the last was stated by the secretary and the committee increased the house allowance of one-tenth of one per cent. to one-fourth of one per cent.

"There is a campaign on for paid advertising in the newspapers," said Secretary McAdoo. "I have not committed myself to any sort of advertising campaign, but to sell them for one-fifth of one per cent. is a monumental task."

"Our population is not educated to buying government bonds. The decision to sell two billion of Liberty bonds was not made arbitrarily. We had to have the money. I am satisfied that future issues of these bonds are going to cost a great deal more than the first. I think advertising is necessary. I want to be free to advertise."

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—In an opinion handed down in the United States district court yesterday, Judge Morton sustained the government in the second count of its indictment against M. Pioway & Son and other members of the National Union association and sustained the defendants in the first count. The government has not decided yet whether it will go to trial on the single count or seek a new indictment.

The count on which the government is sustained charges the union association with being an unlawful monopoly in restraint of interstate trade and is the real basis of the government's case. The other count charges the defendants with engaging in a conspiracy and combination in restraint of trade and, with intent to eliminate competition, causing nearly all the northern unions bought by members of the association to be bought and sold in accordance with a concerted plan.

Sept. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Shore Liberty, which Americans below the rank of warrant officers as well as British sailors have been deprived of for three days, was restored today by permission of the Italian authorities. The ban against Americans below the rank of lieutenant-commander traveling to a nearby city or suburbs is still in force.

ALLIES DENY ANY AID TO GEN. KORNILOFF

PETROGRAD, Sept. 14.—The diplomatic representatives of the allied powers have issued a statement denying allegations made by some of the newspapers that they are taking steps either to support Gen. Korniloff's action or to hinder his suppression, which, the statement adds in respect to Russia's internal affairs.

"The representatives of all the entente powers in Petrograd," says the statement, "are in sympathy with the great democracy of their ally and offered their good services in order to hasten the shedding of blood in civil war."

The statement gives the text of a verbal note presented to the minister of foreign affairs by Sir George Buchanan, the British ambassador, acting as dean of the diplomatic corps, and proceeds:

"The representatives of the allied powers met under the presidency of Sir George Buchanan to deliberate on the situation created by the conflict between the provisional government and Gen. Korniloff. Conscious of their duty to remain at their posts for the defense of their country, if necessary, of their nationals, they at the same time consider it of the highest importance to maintain the union of all the forces in Russia for the continuance of a victorious war."

"The view which they unanimously declared was in the interest of humanity and of the peace of the world, in the face of the calamities, they offered their good services with the noble aim of serving the interests of Russia and the work of the allies."

SEVEN BILLION DOLLARS FOR WAR EXPENSES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—More than seven billion dollars for war expenses will be appropriated by the urgent deficiency bill brought into the house today by the appropriations committee with plans to hurry it through.

CONFERENCES ON THE WAR TAX BILL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Beginning conferences today on the war tax bill, the committee made preliminary survey of the disputed amendments and began a general discussion but postponed any definite important action.

At the instance of Representative Kitchen a secrecy rule was adopted. The conference decided, over the vigorous protest of Senator Simmons, leading the senate members and others, that no news would be made public until they completed their work.

It is said that between the hours of 9 a. m. and 12 noon on a recent Sunday there passed St. Pauls church, in Hingham, automobiles with Massachusetts registry numbers 10, 100, 1000 and 10,000.

VICTORY FOR ITALIANS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Italians have taken from the Austro-Hungarians the fortified hill of Dol and the Gargaro basin and now occupy the slope and top of Mount San Gabriele, after severe fighting. The Italian embassy in announcing the capture today said it is the greatest victory gained by the Italians since their entrance into the war.

CROSS-EXAMINATION OF SOLDIER ON TRIAL

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Sept. 14.—Robert Warm, a private in the United States cavalry at Fort Ethan Allen, on trial here for the murder of Jennie Hemmingsway, 14 years old, testified in cross-examination today that he had frequently spoken to the girl of marriage and had discussed with her a plan for a division of his pay, part of which was to be set aside for support of his twin babies at Pottstown, Pa., his old home.

Warm denied having said he would marry Miss Hemmingsway if she refused to marry him. Thirteen letters by Warm to the girl, the last of which was dated Aug. 10, two days before her body was found in a cornfield, were produced. Counsel contended that they were important inasmuch as they showed the relations of Warm and the victim.

Warm was questioned at length concerning his walk with Miss Hemmingsway the night she was killed by strangulation and was asked particularly about his testimony that soldier had followed and threatened her. He did not think she was in danger at their hands, he said, and for that reason he left her, under the impression that she would return home immediately.

UNDERTAKERS ON JOB AS BALLOON DROPS

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Sept. 14.—A Collegiate balloon school pilot yesterday performed a stunt that has been duplicated only once in this country. The balloon, "America II," pilot N. H. Arnold of the United States aeronautical department in charge, with a passenger, sailed from the roof of Rockville, William and Stafford Springs started out with doctors and nurses to pick up the killed or wounded men.

The balloon landed in a thick growth of woods, a mile from Coventry. The men in the basket were shaken up, but not injured. Two more balloons will arrive next week and will be used by the school. College students from nearly every college in the east will train here this winter.

SEEK REDUCTION IN OCEAN FREIGHT RATES ON PACIFIC BY JAPAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Possibilities of a general reduction in ocean freight rates on the Pacific were discussed at a conference yesterday between Viscount Ishii, head of the Japanese mission, and Chairman Hurley of the shipping board. A proposal to transfer Japanese tonnage to transatlantic service also was taken up.

The shipping board is about to reduce all freight rates charged by American vessels and hopes to reach an arrangement with the Japanese for cuts in Japanese tariffs. The Japanese now control most of the shipping on the Pacific.

STATUE OF SACRED HEART PLACED IN POSITION

A beautiful statue of the Sacred Heart was set in position this afternoon over the main entrance to the Sacred Heart church in Moore street. The statue is eight feet high and weighs more than two tons. It is made of Westerley granite, considered one of the finest stones in the world. John M. Pinardi of the Lowell Monument Co. is the sculptor and in this statue, he has lived up to his reputation.

At present the statue is veiled and will not be unveiled for public gaze for several weeks. It is planned to accompany the unveiling with appropriate ceremonies but the exact nature of these and the date of the event have not yet been decided upon. Neither has the name of the donor been divulged.

The statue was moved to its position in a niche over the main entrance of the edifice today by Contractor Daniel H. Walker and was set up in position under the direction of Mr. Walker and Mr. Pinardi. It is about 65 feet above the ground and will make a splendid adornment for the Sacred Heart church.

FURTHER ATTACK ON PRES. WILSON'S NOTE

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 14.—"Only fools believe we shall ever give up Riga," explained Dr. Gustav Stresemann, national-liberal member of the reichstag, in addressing a national-liberal meeting in Berlin yesterday.

Dr. Stresemann made a further attack upon President Wilson's reply to Pope Benedict's peace note. He took up the different points successively and defended German militarism as a necessity on the ground of the empire's geographical position.

Peace, said Dr. Stresemann, had not been brought nearer by the decision reaching majority recorded in the opinion of its resolution. The sword alone could bring peace, he declared.

The meeting, which repeatedly greeted Dr. Stresemann's militant utterances with loud applause, telegraphed to Emperor William a message similar to those that have been recently sent from various similar meetings.

RUSSIAN TROOPS REGAIN GROUND AS REVOLT ENDS

U. S. to Give More Facts of Germany's Illegitimate Use of Neutral Diplomats

BRIDGE TO BE ACCEPTED SCHOOL NEWS

Convinced that Gen. Korniloff's rebellion is definitely at an end, although the general himself has not formally surrendered, the leaders at Petrograd are setting about the reconstruction of the government. Formation of a new cabinet is said to be well along toward completion.

The submission of so many of the troops and leaders who were adhering to Gen. Korniloff apparently had the leader of the revolt in a position of helplessness. He is said to have notified the government of his intention to surrender upon the arrival at his headquarters of General Alexiev, chief of staff under Premier Kerensky. One of Korniloff's chief supporters, General Kaledin, chief of the Cossacks, is reported to have been arrested.

Russian Regain Ground

Meanwhile the Russian army at the front, particularly in the northern section, is displaying a fighting spirit and according to the official statement is regaining some of the ground abandoned to the Germans in the Riga district. Several villages have been recaptured.

French Repulse Germans

Activity on the other battle fronts, except the Austro-Italian where Gen. Cadorna is still fighting, is not notable. The Germans apparently were more demonstrative in the Alsace district on the French front, than elsewhere. Last night reports of a German attack on the Camerote plateau. This was repulsed in hand to hand fighting.

Raid by "Shock" Troops

Berlin reports an action on the Alsace front which may be the one alluded to in the Paris Committee's operation statement charges and the reported raid by "shock" troops which carried the second French line, where heavy losses were inflicted on the French forces.

Again the Berlin statement mentions the artillery fire in Flanders increasing to drum fire intensity which usually heralds a German attack. Evidently the Germans are expecting such an attack, but they announce that none has yet been delivered.

The German forces have been on the alert in one section on the Flanders front, however, and it is claimed by Berlin that on Wednesday night the British were expelled from the wooded district north of the German line, the Germans taking numerous prisoners in the operation.

At Korniloff's Headquarters

VILLAGE OF POPOVO, NEAR TSARSKO-SELO, Russia, Sept. 13.—Hearing obtained the only permit issued by the chief of the Petrograd district staff to a correspondent since the beginning of Gen. Korniloff's revolt. The Associated Press, which is early today at this village, which is the headquarters of the staff of a Russian regiment of the guard, which, with two other rifle regiments, is engaged in holding the front opposite the famous "savage" division. The situation here is as follows: Although all danger of an armed struggle is now excluded, the "savage" division still is not agreed to surrender on the terms granted by the provisional government last night but it has formally pledged itself not to attack Kerensky's forces. With its artillery and machine gun detachments the division which is composed of tribesmen from the villages south of this place without entrenchments, outposts, sentries or reconnoitering detachments.

Passing within forty yards of the Popovo church are the government lines, but the Kerensky forces also have an intention of attacking as negotiations are proceeding and there is a prospect of a settlement being reached before nightfall.

Russian emissaries and officers constantly are passing into the camp of the Caucasians, carrying proclamations signed by Gen. Filippenko, the supreme commander, advising the tribesmen to leave the march to Tsarsko-Seio. Likewise the tribesmen from the division all the time are coming into Popovo with plans for a settlement.

British Air Raids

LONDON, Sept. 14.—British naval airplanes made another raid on the night of Wednesday and Thursday on German military establishments in Belgium. An official statement issued by the British admiralty today says:

"A bombing raid was carried out during the night of Sept. 12-13 by the royal naval air service on military objectives of the Ghislies aerodrome and the Thourout aerodrome. A large quantity of bombs was dropped. All our machines returned safely."

Quiet on British Front

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Field Marshal Haig's report from the British headquarters in France, issued today by the British war office says:

"There is nothing of special interest to report."

French Repulse Germans

PARIS, Sept. 14.—A German attack against the French positions on the Camerote plateau, in the Alsace region last night, was repulsed after hand to hand fighting. The French war office officially announced today.

Russian General Arrested

LONDON, Sept. 14.—According to a dispatch from Petrograd to Reuters' Limited, Gen. Kaledin, chief of the Don Cossacks, has been arrested at Rostov by the local council of workers' and soldiers' deputies.

Steady Improvement

PETROGRAD, Sept. 13.—(Delayed)—M. Sockin, private secretary to Premier, continued to page thirteen

the federal service. There were 5000 men in the coast guard and 5000 in the hospital. Enlisted strength of the marine corps was 29,971; reserves in the services, 107,000; national naval volunteers, 701; retired men on active duty, 14. The army was approximately 15,000 officers in the navy and 1166 in the Marine corps.

"In other words, on that date the army had, including officers and men, 15,000 and 1166, making a total armed strength on that date of 1,074,146 men, all of whom are volunteers. Prior to that time, there was not a drafted soldier in a single training camp. The draft law was approved May 18, 1917."

Robber Chased Over Roof by Officer

Patrolman Adelard Cossette showed signs of activity early this morning when he chased a young man over the roof of a building in the rear of the saloon conducted by John J. Brennan, who had previously broken into Mr. Brennan's saloon, outstanding the officer.

The man, who evidently knew the location and entrance to the saloon very well, went through a rear window, instead of raising the sash from the window and while he was making his way about the place Patrolman Cossette saw him and going to the rear of the building arrived a trifle too late to apprehend him. The man climbed over a roof and got away.

The cash register was opened by the intruder and about $25 taken.

SUPREME COURT DISMISSES BILL BROUGHT BY CEMENT CO. AGAINST P. T. BOWLES

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—The supreme court today dismissed a bill brought by the Jamestown Portland Cement Co. against Francis T. Bowles and others, by specific performance of an alleged contract in relation to the subscription of stock in the Yorktown Cement corporation, formed to take over (mar) and clay properties in Virginia. The bill was owned by the Jamestown Co. and the amount of stock involved amounted to $500,000. The court held that the bill did not show a binding contract.

Speculation on Sweden's Action

It does, however, raise some speculation as to how the Stockholm foreign office will explain it. Stockholm has declared that Baron Lowen, Swedish minister to Argentina, transmitted messages for Count von Luxburg, the German charge there, without knowing their contents. Whether the same defense will be made for Cronholm, is not known; he no longer is in the Swedish diplomatic service. The interesting point, in the minds of officials and diplomats here, is how much the Stockholm foreign office knows of the affair.

Recommended Decoration

Von Eckhardt's letter to the German chancellor recounting the extent to which Cronholm used Sweden's diplomatic privileges for Germany and his recommendation of an imperial decoration for him, is regarded by allied diplomats here as further evidence of their charge that Germany has distributed decorations among the diplomats of friendly neutrals for services probably in other instances.

Story of Intrigue

Copies of the von Eckhardt letter have been forwarded by the state department to Ambassador Fletcher in Mexico and to Minister Morris at Stockholm, but neither has instructions to present the information to the government to which he is accredited.

Despatches to the government from The Hague dated yesterday were that up to that time the disclosures made by Secretary Lansing of the manner in which Count von Luxburg had used the Swedish minister of Argentine as a bearer of despatches had not been

Use of Neutral Diplomats

As an added chapter to the story of the recently revealed intrigue in Argentina, the disclosure gives a hint of the nature of the evidence in this government's possession of Germany's illegitimate use of neutral diplomats. The full extent of this evidence may never be published, but it is known to be complete, and this government's action in making some of it public is not felt to be directed so much at Sweden as toward further informing the world at large of Germany's practices.

Uruguay Seizes German Ships

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 14.—Uruguayan marines today boarded all the German ships in the harbor here, the government having heard of plans to sink the vessels.

Two Americans Killed in War

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Corporal Meeker, an American aviator was killed at Pau on Tuesday in an airplane accident due to his motor stalling, the Herald announces today.

Attached to the Lafayette flying squadron in France, is William Henry Meeker, formerly of the Harvard Crimson, who sailed from New York in May to join the aviation forces in France and whose arrival at Bordeaux was reported on Aug. 31.

Hall of Minneapolis, a driver in section 62 of the Harkes-Norton Red Cross ambulance service was killed on Tuesday while on duty at an advanced post and was buried near Avignon, word says. The Herald. "The shell which killed Hall wounded his companion, B. E. Sylvester of Plainview, Minn., although not seriously."

Senate Takes Up New War Credits Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—With less than a dozen senators present, the senate today took up the new war credits bill authorizing new bonds and certificates totalling $11,535,000,000.

Senator Stone, in charge of the measure for the finance committee, urged prompt action and as brief discussion as possible so that every effort could be made to expedite its passage.

Police Court Cases

It took less than five minutes to dispose of the cases brought before Judge Enright in the regular session of the police court this morning. A couple of drunken offenders and a person who previously appeared before the court for non-support were the sum and substance of the docket.

The juvenile session, however, proved to be a lengthy one, there being many offenders, but there were no cases of a very serious nature.

Senate Consideration of Billion War Credits Bill Began Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Senate consideration of the eleven billion dollar war credits bill began today with prospect of its passage by tomorrow night. The measure already has passed the house. Senator Stone, in charge of the bill opened today's debate with an explanation of the measure's provisions.

Four Tarby Men Appeared

Four men who were tarry in responding to the order to appear for examination before the exemption board of division 4, Greenhalse school, appeared this morning and were examined by Dr. G. O. Lavallee. Of the four two successfully passed the physical test, but claimed exemption on the grounds of dependents. The other two failed to pass the physical examination. This morning's examination brought the last quota to a close, with the exception of three more who failed to appear.

Published in Germany

It is not that this government will take any further action except possibly to add to the story of intrigue by revealing more documents in its possession.

Letter Intercepted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Officials and diplomats today are awaiting the next development in the unusual international situation created by the state department's revelation that the Swedish legation in Mexico, as well as in Argentina was utilized by the German government as a secret means of conveying valuable communications to the Berlin foreign office. A letter written March 8, 1916, by von Eckhardt, former German minister to Mexico, who was concerned in the notorious Zimmermann plot was intercepted by American officials while en route to the imperial chancery. It discloses that Folke Cronholm, a Swedish charge at Mexico City, virtually was employed by the German legation to furnish information from "the hostile camp."

The letter asks that the imperial government recognize the services of Cronholm by awarding him the "order of the Crown of the second class."

To Investigate Relations

LONDON, Sept. 14.—An official statement issued by the Swedish government, telegraphs the correspondent at Stockholm of the Central News Agency says that O. A. Ewerlof, Swedish plenipotentiary to foreign affairs, has been given leave of absence from the foreign office and has placed himself at the disposition of the minister in charge of the investigation in connection with the Swedish-Argentine relations.

BIRTHDAY OF THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Every soldier, in America, in camp and cantonment saluted the flag today at dawn in honor of the anniversary of the birth of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Orders to this effect were sent yesterday by the war department as result of a request made by Mrs. Nat. S. Brown of St. Louis, national president of the Children of America Loyalty League.

Mrs. Brown telegraphed the department that at 9 o'clock today 137,000 school children of St. Louis would salute the flag and sing "The Star Spangled Banner" in honor of the anniversary and requested that American troops be ordered to pay special honors at dawn.

Francis Scott Key wrote "The Star Spangled Banner" on Sept. 14, 1814, after the battle of Port Mellenary.

Korniloff's Commander Shot Himself

PETROGRAD, Sept. 13, 10 p. m.—After being received by Premier Kerensky at the winter palace and informed of the fate which awaited him, Gen. Korniloff, commander of the Korniloff troops which were sent against Petrograd, returned to his lodgings tonight and shot himself. The general's wounds were not fatal.

FOR POSTAL PNEUMATIC TUBE SYSTEM

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—A congressional investigating committee headed by Senator John W. Weeks, conducted a hearing here today to determine the advisability of retaining the postal pneumatic tube system and its possible purchase by the government. Postmaster Murray, the only speaker who opposed retention of the tube service, objected to it as unnecessarily expensive.

Representatives of the department stores, the fire underwriters, the Boston Elevated railroad and other business interests, declared that to transport the mail by automobile vans would add to the congestion in downtown business streets.

MRS. KING VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

SALISBURY, N. C., Sept. 14.—Expressing the belief that the death of Mrs. Maude A. King, who was mysteriously killed near Concord, N. C., on Aug. 23, was neither the result of an accident nor suicide but that conflicting circumstances indicated foul play, Solicitor Hayden Clement today ordered the investigation into her death reopened on Sept. 24.

"Lady Lookabout," "The Spellbinder" and "Quarter of a Century Ago" articles now appear in the Sunday Supplement of The Sun published each Saturday.

U.S. ARMED SHIP SUNK; ALL SAVED

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The American ship Wilmore was sunk by a German submarine on Sept. 12, according to announcement made today by the British admiralty. All the members of the crew were saved. Further details have not been received.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The Wilmore was a steam ship of 5399 tons gross register, built in 1914 at Quincy, Mass., and was formerly known as the Atlantic.

She sailed under command of Capt. James Brewer from Philadelphia, Aug. 26 with a cargo of coal, locomotives and other goods for a French port. Her owner was the Berwind-White Coal Co. of New York. The Wilmore was armed.

BIG CANNING EXHIBIT PLANNED FOR THE FAIR

The regular Friday morning session of the public safety canning station was held in the war work headquarters in Merrimack street and was fairly well attended. Ketchup and corn were put up as well as a number of jars of pears which are just reaching the height of their season. Another class will be held at 7 o'clock this evening and the directors urge as many as possible to attend as the canning season is fast drawing to a close. After the first of October the class will be closed.

Preparations for the coming exhibit and demonstration at the Casino received a decided boost yesterday when a committee from the local station visited Mrs. Charles Morgan of Somerville, who had charge of a big canning and food exhibit in floating several weeks ago. Mrs. Morgan is considered an expert in her line and she has consented to help the local women in their exhibit.

Several large tables will be filled with different kinds of food and will show the comparative food value of each. For instance, it is planned to have on one table a quart of milk and then arranged beside it the varying amounts of other kinds of food which amount to the milk in food value. Another table will show the various substitutes for white bread.

Food experts are urging the greatest economy in the use of white bread and the exhibit in connection with this subject should be of the greatest interest.

After the exhibit at the Casino it is planned to have one of the same nature at the canning station in Merrimack street, where there will be room to exhibit on a large scale and where there will be more opportunity to demonstrate the various exhibits. This second exhibit will last a whole week and will serve as a fitting close for the canning station activities.

People who desire to enter a list of their preserved products in the exhibit are urged to get in touch with Mrs. Carmichael at the station, 126 Merrimack street. A number of worth while prizes are to be offered.

A meeting of the committee in charge of the exhibit will be held tomorrow morning to perfect plans.

It may be of interest to those who have followed the work of the canning station to know that a total of nearly 1400 jars of food has been preserved since the opening of the station July 28. This does not include a large amount of ketchup and jelly which has also been put up.

At noon tomorrow the National Engineering Co. which constructed the new Pawtucket bridge will receive its final check for labor and material in connection with the erection of the bridge, minus $2500 which sum is being held back as a guarantee that the bridge was built according to specifications and is in good condition. The final payment of $2500 will be made April 1, 1918 if the bridge is as represented at that time.

The check the company will receive tomorrow will be for $3315.50 and its delivery on the part of the city, it is alleged, will be a formal acceptance of the bridge. Commissioner Brown stated this morning, however, that the city engineer or some expert in bridge construction should pass upon the bridge and issue a statement in writing to the municipal council before the structure is accepted. There is a clause in the contract between the city of Lowell and the National Engineering Co. to the effect that the council will accept the bridge as soon as the city engineer or a bridge expert reports in writing that the condition of the bridge is O.K.

Will Award Contract

Bids for the equipment of the laundry, dining room and kitchen of the contagious hospital have been received by the commissioner of public buildings and the contract is now being prepared in the office of the city solicitor. Mrs. Rosa Burned to Death in Fire That Destroyed Weymouth Almshouse

Score of Other Inmates Taken Down Fire Escapes and Ladders

WEYMOUTH, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Mary Rosa, aged 55 years was burned to death in her bed and a score of other aged and infirm inmates of the town almshouse were taken down fire escapes and ladders when fire destroyed the building early today.

The heroic work of John W. Eldridge, superintendent of the almshouse and John Bickford, a helper, prevented a heavy loss of life. Without taking time to dress, they carried the aged men and women from their beds to the windows and thence down the fire escapes and ladders. To summon the fire department, Mrs. Eldridge was obliged to break down a door and make her way through the blinding smoke to a telephone.

The fire was discovered in the room occupied by Mrs. Rosa. Aroused by heat and smoke Miss Ida Davis, who occupied the next room opened Mrs. Rosa's door and found the room in flames. Miss Davis ran to the hall way screaming "fire." She aided Suby and Mrs. Eldridge, carrying the inmates to the ground.

"They were taken to a small house in the yard. This caught fire and the aged people were again removed, this time to dwelling houses nearby.

One of the inmates, Mrs. Margaret Marlon, aged 60, was bedridden and it took two men to bring her safely out of the burning building.

The almshouse, a two-story building, was totally destroyed. The loss was estimated at $50,000.

SUGAR HELPS TO OVERCOME TIRED FEELING.

That sugar helps to ward off fatigue is the belief of many authorities. Consumed in fairly large quantities it acts rapidly, its full effects being felt about two hours after taking.

Countless experiments have demonstrated beyond doubt that sugar has remarkable sustaining power when eaten by those undergoing great fatigue.

Scientific experiments carried out with the aid of the ergograph—an instrument for registering accurately variations of muscular power—show that sugar gives an increase in physical power ranging from 50 to 75 per cent.

One of the first observers to draw attention to this virtue of sugar was a physician who lived in Newcastle, England.

It is not known, however, who invented or discovered sugar. It has been known since the dawn of history, but not in all countries.

The invention of the first process for refining sugar is ascribed to the Arabs and a Venetian merchant is said to have purchased the secret from them and introduced the progress into Sicily.

The over use of sugar, however, is a great cause of ill health, especially among people who do not get enough exercise daily. It is particularly harmful when eaten in concentrated forms, such as candies.

One reason why sugar has a high food value is that it is readily utilized for combustion, and if taken between meals greatly increases the calories and may lead to over-nourishment.

PLEA TO SAVE DOES IN DEER HUNTING

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 14.—The open season for deer is now at hand in many parts of the country and in 15 states the law allows both bucks and does to be killed. In the other states does are protected at all seasons. The United States department of agriculture strongly urges that these 15 states should make 1917 a closed season on does. It points out that about 10,000,000 pounds of venison are produced in a year.

Since the doe is the rule average less in weight than bucks of the same age, killing a doe instead of a buck usually means considerably less meat. Furthermore the department points out that the supply of deer will not increase if the breeding stock is killed off. The rapidity with which deer increase when does are protected is shown by the experience in Vermont, Pennsylvania, and other states, and a doe spared this fall means one more fawn as well as one more doe next spring.

Make Every Deer Count

Several recommendations are made by the department as follows:

Do not kill a spike buck or doe when you can obtain a full-grown buck.

Do not kill deer when weather conditions or difficulties of transportation prevent saving the meat.

Save every pound of meat.

Save the skin and the head also if the antlers are in good condition.

Do not shoot deer at night, or in the water, or unless you can clearly see that the animal aimed at is a full-grown buck. Failure to observe this rule usually results in a violation of the game laws and often in the loss of human life.

SHOT HIS MOTHER AND KILLED HIMSELF

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Believed to be insane from overstudy, Philip P. Tyler, 21 years old, a second-year student at Harvard, last night shot his widowed mother, Mrs. Isabella T. Tyler, through the left shoulder, in the Tyler home at 18 Sidlaw road, Brighton, and then turned the weapon upon himself and sent a bullet from a 32-calibre revolver into his right temple. The young man died instantly.

The attempted murder and suicide created great excitement in the exclusive Aberdeen section, where the unfortunate young man and his mother are well known. Dr. Joseph Stanton of 152 Strathmore road was summoned and declared that young Tyler's death was probably instantaneous. Dr. Stanton treated Mrs. Tyler's wound, which is not serious.

LET CONTRACT FOR FIRST U. S. SHIPYARD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Contracts for construction of a government owned shipbuilding yard at Hog Island, Penn., and for the construction therein of 50 fabricated steel merchant vessels, were let by the Emergency Fleet corporation yesterday to American International corporation.

These contracts are the first actually signed for the three new plants in which the government will have built a large number of fabricated ships. The Hog Island plant will cost slightly less than $20,000,000.

The other contracts will go to the Submarine Boat corporation for a plant at Newark and to the Merchants Shipbuilding company for one at Chester, Penn.

The first of the 50 ships will be completed by the American International corporation within 10 or 11 months and the entire number will be finished probably within 15 or 16 months. Long before they are finished, however, the shipping board in all likelihood will have asked for additional money to build more ships.

Shipping board officials believe that the fabrication of ships will mean that America within a few years will have the largest fleet of merchant ships of any nation in the world.

The fabricating program calls for manufacture of the parts for the ships in the steel mills and only the assembly of their parts in the yards. Some officials believe that fabricating methods will eventually revolutionize shipbuilding.

THREE KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Constant Lanaz, 28, of Sandwich, motorcyclist, in collision with auto between Sandwich and Sagamore.

HELP HOOVER, SAYS WINONA WILCOX

Women are always willing to boil potatoes and fry meat. These are short, cooking processes. Baking bread is a long process, therefore it was the first housewifely duty which woman thrust out of the home, and the one which is today avoided more than any other by the mass of housekeepers.

Now that the price of our daily bread, as purchased at the stores, is known to be extortionate, women learn that the labor required to make bread is the baker's excuse for doubling its price.

To the cost of the ingredients, bakers add an equal sum as their profit, their reward for doing the mixing and kneading, formerly done by the wife at the home.

The actual cost of the 10-cent loaf is less than 5 cents, according to Washington figures. Hoover says that the 5-cent loaf allows the baker a good profit. The American woman protests in vain when she is over-charged 2 cents a loaf.

Just lately she has learned that bread costs more in the United States than in famine-threatened, war-torn Europe. Authoritative statistics show that bread in Belgium and France costs 40 per cent. less than in New York, and that in England four pounds of bread are to be had for 23 cents, which is about one-third less than in America, where the wheat is grown.

Isn't it about time for the housekeeper to do a good deal more than murmur an objection to the ten-cent loaf?

Woman is the original bread baker, and obviously, she is competent to cut the nation's bread bill in two simply by doing her own baking at home. She can save 5 cents on every loaf she makes at the rate of a loaf a day to each family, the woman of the country could have $400,000,000 to their credit in the banks, at the end of just one year, if they would, do for themselves what they are now letting the bakers do for them.

"But we do not want to return to such primitive ways," announces some so-called "progressive" lady. "We want to free the home of drudgery."

Which is doubtless admirable, in times of peace. But just now the business of civilized people is to free the world of German militarism. This is more important than any other human aim.

To claim exemption from the common service on any grounds is a symptom of mental or moral inferiority.

Such a spirit is unfair to our allies, it is unfair to the armies we are raising, it is unfair to woman herself.

Man, too, was trying to lift the world out of its dreariness, trying to lighten the physical burdens of existence, trying to make living a finer and a better art, when the Hun broke loose.

War sent the artist and the artisan together back to the most primitive customs, to digging ditches, to living out of doors.

By what right can woman cling to the old enter habits? Why should she escape her portion of manual labor?

Woman can control bread prices in this country by going back to the kneading board, just as man has gone back to the plow and shovel in the cause of democracy.

The government has fixed the price of wheat at $2.20 a bushel. It is up to the women of the country to take up the job of reducing bread prices when the government power ceases.

Help Hoover. He says an 8-cent loaf is reasonable.

Don't shirk your share, Madame Housewife, and bread will sell for that, or less!

I am showing tomorrow all the new fads and fancies for this fall, New Battleship Serges, Cantonment Brown, Black Belgian drape for social and church wear. The famous Wanskuk heavy serges, Scotch effects in heather, olives and gray shades, 'the new plain green, and green stripe touched up with a little yellow, popular for young men, Sherriff's famous silk mixtures and Standish Mills of Plymouth, Mass., the finest and dressiest goods you ever laid your eyes on.

It took genius and daring to do what I have undertaken in the tailoring business this fall in the face of a constantly rising woolen and worsted market. I have planned to keep my prices on newest fall woolens actually as low as a year ago.

This required heavy buying—the heaviest of my history—and I want to tell you that I have already received for my Lowell store, on my tables now, over twelve thousand yards of merchandise for this fall and more to come. These were bought by me before the extreme rise in prices, and I honestly believe that I am the only tailor in New England who can, and will, sell at the old prices this season or as long as these goods last.

To prove the above statement, I want to call your attention to my Blue Serge display in your right hand window entering my store. I want you to look this over—sixty-five full bolts, averaging fifty-six yards to a bolt—just as I received them from the mill—bought months ago. I can sell these goods to Commission Houses today at a 50 per cent. profit without putting a shears into the cloth, but I want these goods, they are scarce today. My customers want them, and I have them for you, at the same old prices you paid me last year.

Signed, MITCHELL.

The Point I Want to Bring Home is That I Am Giving Wonderful Custom Clothing Value for the Money

You know I am doing the business of Lowell today and have done it for years; the same applies to sixteen other cities with Mitchell stores. My weeks today are larger than months eight years past. If the people didn't get values they would not be coming in to me the way you see them coming year after year. I tell you the goods and wearing service is bringing them back and nothing else could bring them.

FOR THIS OCCASION

I'll give you as a kind of commission on your own business a coupon book, value returnable to holder in one year, in labor $12.50 ABSOLUTELY FREE with suit or overcoat order. The next time you buy you come to me as a matter of knowledge, the same as the crowds you know and see coming year after year after year since 1909.

SUIT or To $15.00 OVERCOAT Measure WITH FREE COUPON BOOK

SPECIAL

Mr. Reader, if some morning you wake up and read in the paper how MITCHELL, THE TAILOR, has bought out your favorite tailor, the man who charged you $40.00 to $60.00 for a suit of clothes, I want you to weigh well this fact, that his merchandise does not depreciate one iota in the removal from his high-priced tailoring establishment to my store, where prices are less than one-third.

Ten days ago a Boston commission house sold me for spot cash, their entire sample collection from a mill not sixty miles away from here, I cannot mention the name of this firm which sold me the goods, neither can I mention the name of the mill. It is the only restriction placed on me. But I have in my store, in my window, several styles with original tickets on them, not a yard of this purchase is worth less than $12.50, and some as high as $5.00. I want my old customers to get in on this. They are goods that would be sold by high-priced tailors around $40.00 to $50.00.

LETTER FROM LOWELL MAN NOW IN FRANCE

The first Lowell man to be heard from "Somewhere in France" with Uncle Sam's advance guard on foreign soil is Police Officer John J. Donovan who sends a letter to the "Spillbinder" of The Sun. The letter bears a howling number of postmarks, etc., together with the number of the censor who opened it, "6160" and the stamp of the latter in passing it. The letter reads as follows:

Somewhere in France
August 19, 1917.

Dear Spillbinder:
At present I have but little time to write to anyone as there is something to do all the time. We are now under strict army rules and I want to tell you it is no cinch. However, I like it very much and believe the tough life in the cause I will write you a letter once in a while and when we get settled I'll make it a long one. As to the war, I can't say anything about it, as we are under a strict censorship and there's no use writing news that won't get by. Just now as I write I am called for some detail and that is the way with all of us; always something to do all the time.

Back Again

While passing through a city in France not long ago I noticed the sign on a small hotel or inn, "Half-Way House to Tipperary," and being curious I stole a look in at the window and there sure enough I saw the reason for the sign. The map was on the faces of five of them. We all smiled when they yelled in a rich Irish brogue: "Good luck, boys! That reminds me, when we were in London after the big parade, the last words we heard were from an old Irish lady who just as we entered the depot, cried out: 'God bless ye all, boys, and good luck to ye!' It sounded good to us."

Gives my regards to Mayor O'Donnell and all my friends and tell them I am in good spirits and ready to do anything my superiors order me to do. All the Lowell boys here are in good health. Your friend,
Jack.

John J. Donovan.

The censor evidently got in his fine work on the remainder of the letter for the page is torn off at this point. The appearance of a short notice of the designation of Private Donovan's command was cut out by the censor.

HOW TO FORCE DROP IN PRICE OF BREAD

BY HARRY D. HUNT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 14.—The one-pound loaf of bread for which the American housewife is charged 10 cents, contains only 4.12 cents worth of materials.

The remaining 5.88 cents go to pay cost of production and profits to baker and dealer.

Those figures are not those of the food administration, which has been seeking some means to lower the price of bread to the consumers of the United States, but are the figures of the producing bakers themselves.

Headaches

come mostly from disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. Regulate these organs and keep free from headaches by using

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Largest Sale of Any Medicine in the World. Sold everywhere. In boxes, 10c, 25c.

They show conclusively that the American housewife can have a 5-cent, one-pound loaf of all wheat bread just as soon as she wants it.

The bakers will not produce it for that, but—

She can bake it herself.

Here are the costs of the various materials entering into bread, as compiled by producing bakers themselves, which show that you get only 4.12 cents worth of materials for each 10 cents you pay for bread. Figures are based on production per barrel of flour.

One barrel of flour.....$11.00
Two pounds yeast at 25c......50
Three pounds salt at 1 1/2c......45
Five pounds sugar at 9c......45
Four pounds lard at 20c......80

Total cost ingredients.....$12.705

From each barrel of flour an average of 212 loaves of bread are made. With 212 loaves costing $12.705, the cost per loaf is 4.12 cents. The baker lumps his cost of production and profits at an equal sum, bringing the cost to the retailer up to 8.24 cents, and the retailer takes what is left of 10 cents per loaf, for his trouble and profit.

It should be stated, however, that the cost of flour to the baker, with wheat at $2.20, should be about $10.50 instead of $11.00 per barrel, and bakers have not been paying 8 cents per pound for sugar.

Bread in the hands of the retailer

Don't wish for a good complexion—Resinol will give it to you

If your skin is not fresh, smooth and glowing, or has suffered from an unwise use of cosmetics, here is an easy, inexpensive way to clear it:

Spread on a little Resinol Ointment, letting it remain for ten minutes. Then wash off with Resinol Soap and hot water. Finish with a dash of clear, cold water to close the pores. Do this regularly, once a day, and see if it does not quickly soothe and cleanse the pores, lessen the tendency to pimples, and leave the complexion clear, fresh and velvety. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all druggists.

at 8.24 cents per loaf enables the retailer to get 1.76 cents profit out of each loaf sold.

Granting the fairness of the bakers' figures of 4.12 cents for value of materials in the one-pound loaf—all though government experts say that is above actual average costs—it must be apparent that they are piling it on a little heavily when they add 5.88 cents, or 120 per cent, to cover production costs and two profits.

By baking their own bread, American housewives can, therefore, serve a double purpose.

They can keep in the family pocketbook half the money they are now paying for bread, and at the same time bring to bear upon the big bakers the only argument they will recognize as to why they should cut their profits on bread to a fair one—the necessity of supplying bread at a fair price if they are to have a market for it.

Food Administrator Hoover is laboring with the big baking interests to induce them to play fair on bread prices. Many small bakers have agreed to co-operate and are now making a 12 or 14-ounce loaf to retail at 5 cents, or a 20 to 24-ounce loaf for sale at 10 cents.

But the big baking interests, controlling the vast bulk of business in the large cities, have stood pat on a 10-cent price for loaves of 14 to 16 ounces.

The women of the country who have been helping Hoover in his fight against waste in foods, now have a chance to help him as effectively in his fight for a fair price for bread.

Each loaf of bread they bake in their own homes will be a bombshell against the entrenched big baker.

And each loaf will bring an actual cash saving to the housewife.

CO-OPERATION TO LOWER COST OF FOOD

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Legislation and proclamations intended to restrain the disposition toward exorbitant prices can have only temporary and imperfect results because they touch only superficially, if at all, the fundamental cause of extortion. Peter Hamilton, vice president of the Lawyers' Mortgage Co. of New York, said in an address here today.

Mr. Hamilton discussed "What Co-operation Can Do and Is Doing in Lowering Food Costs" at the national conference of the world's food fair being held under the auspices of the American academy of political and social sciences.

Mr. Hamilton emphasized a distinction between producers and consumers' co-operation, holding that the former has for its underlying motive the making of excessive profit and the raising of prices. Consumers' co-operation, he said, is born of a pressing necessity to reduce costs.

Mr. Hamilton described the inauguration of co-operation by the Maccabean pioneers in 1844 and its developments throughout the world, asserting that the co-operatives will succeed in bringing down food prices where the legislator, the reformer, the socialist, the syndicalist and others have failed.

"Scarcity of supply, greatly increased demand, one or both, are the legitimate immediate causes of high prices," the speaker said. "Monopoly, artificial scarcity induced by withholding supplies from an eager market, cupidity, employing one pretext or another, are the immediate causes of extortion. But back of monopoly, back of cupidity and chicanery is the selfish motive of private profit. It is for this that men cheat each other and descend to all the unfair practices which have puzzled legislators and reformers."

"Our legislators and reformers are like the old fashioned practitioners, frankly treating symptoms with a strong measure of surgery, and directing a cure. The socialists, on the other hand, are good diagnosticians. They know the cause but they are short on therapy, and their remedy could be like a poultice, to throw the patient into fits. The syndicalists, known in this country as the Industrial Workers of the World, have, like the socialists, diagnosed correctly, but their remedy is to let the knife, a radical surgical operation at whatever risk to the patient."

"The co-operator is the only one among these economic doctors who has the correct diagnosis and whose remedy will effect a cure by removing the cause without unduly upsetting the patient. He knows that the disease is chronic and must be subjected to a long course of treatment adapted to the patient's constitution. He does not believe in excessive doses that may disturb the delicate nervous system of the invalid. His purpose is a complete cure, but he realizes that he need not hurry and does not administer his remedy faster than it can be absorbed and assimilated. Thus will he succeed where the others have failed and the outcome is not in doubt though the length of his full accomplishment may be deferred."

Mr. Hamilton said that in the United States co-operation has made slower progress than in Europe but that it would now probably develop rapidly.

ALDERMAN WOOD OF HAVERHILL INDICTED

LAWRENCE, Sept. 14.—Three indictments against Alderman Roswell L. Wood of Haverhill, alleging malfeasance in office, larceny from the city and violation of the statute which prohibits a municipal official from selling property to the city, were returned by the Essex county grand jury here yesterday afternoon.

The indictments are the outcome of an investigation conducted into the affairs of the Haverhill street department while Alderman Wood was at its head. The indictment is now in charge of another department, a change having been made in the reorganization of the government at the beginning of the present year.

Alderman Wood will be summoned to appear in court next Monday to plead.

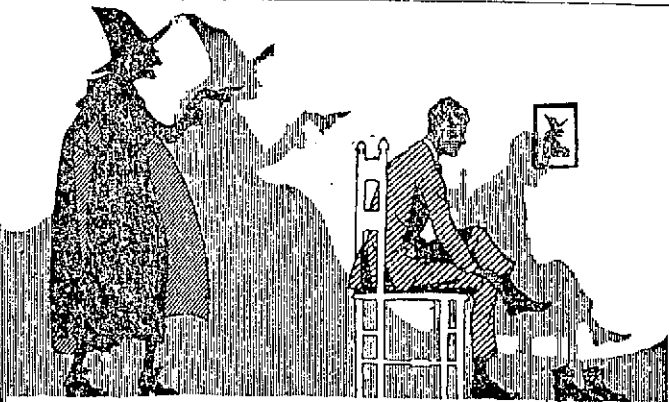

The indictment alleging sale of property to the city while holding an official position involves the purchase of two horses. The larceny charge covers an item of $38.10, which was paid the Boston & Maine railroad for freight and car service, the allegation being that the money was owed in reality by Wood himself.

The malfeasance indictment contains five counts. One refers to approval of the above bill and the second is of a similar nature, it being charged that Wood approved of a claim of $105 for freight and car service which should have been paid by John Cashman instead of the city.

The other three counts set forth that Alderman Wood endorsed bills for team hire and labor presented by James Cotton, Jennie M. Sheehan and Max Blotner & Co., knowing that they were excessive and unlawful.

FOOD LABORATORY TO TEACH HOUSEKEEPERS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 14.—Establishment of a national food laboratory to teach the housekeepers of the United States how best to buy and to prepare food was advocated by Charlotte Perkins Gilman, of New York, in an address she delivered here today before the National Conference on the World's Food called by the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"As we have experiment stations to establish standards and gather information for our farmers," said Mrs. Gilman, "so we should now establish at least one national food laboratory, interviewed by a reporter.

BIG CONFERENCE ON HIGH COST OF LIVING

A people's convention of organized labor and organized farmers, called by the National Nonpartisan League, will be held in St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 18 to 20, inclusive, to fight the high cost of living.

For the first time in the country's history, organized labor and organized farmers are joining hands to eliminate their common enemy, the needless parasitic intermediaries between consumers and producers and the monopolists. The feasibility and necessary limitations of price-fixing will be discussed by economists and statisticians of national reputation, who will analyze the cost of production of the staples of life and prices now charged under alleged open competition, and data presented will be given the government to aid it in fixing such prices.

At least 20,000 delegates are expected and a program feature will be an address on the "Description of Wealth" which Mr. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has been invited to deliver. Among the organizations participating in the conference are:

- The National Nonpartisan League.
- The American Federation of Labor.
- The National Grange.
- The Equity society.
- United Mine Workers of America.

The conference is being called to enable farmers and representatives of other working classes to discuss the common problems of producers and consumers.

If high prices for wheat mean starvation for the children of the poor, the farmers of the northwest are willing to give up out of the earnings of their own sweat and toil, but the farmers want to be sure that the money that comes out of their pockets does not stick in the pockets of greedy millers and middlemen.

This is not merely a farmers' problem. This is a consumer's problem. There seems to be an effort on foot in this country today to set one class of workers over against the other. The effort is being made to prove that the city workers have no interest in common with the farmers; that the only way to get cheap bread is to give the farmer less for his wheat and that the only way the farmer can reduce his cost of living is by making the wage-worker take less.

If this game is not blocked, it will reduce production in every line. It will discourage the farmers from producing big crops and it will make labor discontented and inefficient. A full program will be announced in a few days.

The National Nonpartisan League.

Today the old fashioned special sale of Men's Clothing at less than regular prices is a thing of the past. Woolens are scarce. Manufacturers have no stocks to reduce or sell at reduced prices.

The price of the Chalifoux Special remains $2.00. Shades of H. C. of L. How can we do it? We can't, and make as much profit as we're entitled to. The hat costs us more. Our manufacturers tell us we would be justified in asking $3.00—price. But the price has been $2.00 for so long—the Chalifoux Special has satisfied so many men—we don't want it to lose its identity. Seems like the name and price were inseparably linked.

ASSISTANT POSTMASTER TAKE 12 TO CAMPS FROM HELD FOR THEFT STATE PRISON

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 14.—Seward E. Emmons, assistant postmaster of Lewiston, charged with embezzlement of $3500 of government funds, was held in $500 bail here yesterday to await action by the September grand jury, after pleading guilty. He gave bail, Emmons' pecuniations were made in small amounts over a term of years, according to an investigation made by Inspectors C. C. Hart of Worcester and Tennyson Jefferson of Waterville.

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 14.—Seward E. Emmons has been assistant postmaster here more than 10 years. He is a son of Capt. Seward P. Emmons of this city. He has been in the postal service ever since his graduation from the Lewiston high school in the early '90s. He was first a railway mail clerk, later a postoffice inspector and then assistant postmaster, being appointed to the latter position by ex-Postmaster William T. Smart.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—For the first time in the history of Massachusetts penal institutions men were yesterday transferred from the state prison in Charlestown to outdoor prison camps. Col. Cyrus B. Adams, director of prisons, announced late yesterday afternoon that 12 men were transferred to the camp at West Rutland from Charlestown. They will be employed on public highways and in land reclamation work.

Heretofore transfers have been restricted and men only have been moved from houses of correction and reformatories to these outdoor camps. The honor system is in vogue generally at the camps and have proved successful, Col. Adams said. The director expects to transfer more men, as he can provide outdoor work for them. He cited one case, called to his attention by Deputy Director Edward C. R. Bagley, of a prisoner who drives an auto truck from Framingham to Gardner frequently without guard. The camps are at Framingham, Rutland, South Royalton and Gardner, and there are more than 100 men in the four combined. They live in portable houses and enjoy many conveniences, including heat, shower baths and good food.

DUTCH TO OFFER SHIPS FOR COASTWISE TRADE IN EX-CHANGE FOR FOOD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Joost Van Volleghoven, head of the Dutch mission, conferred with Food Administrator Hoover yesterday on the food situation in Holland and the status of Dutch ships loaded with foodstuffs held in American ports.

The mission is expected to present a new formal proposal offering a large amount of tonnage for use in American coastwise trade in exchange for food shipments. Holland, with the other Northern Europe neutrals, has received no foodstuffs from the United States since the American government took control of exports nearly two months ago.

MUNITIONS MEN IN ROW OVER RUSSIAN RIFLES

JERSEY CITY, Sept. 14.—In an answer filed yesterday to the suit brought by the New England Westinghouse company, 20 Springfield, Mass., for $120,000, alleged to have been lost through breach of contract for the manufacture of 1,000,000 rifles for the Russian government, the Crucible Steel company of America set up a counter claim for $813,000.

The Crucible company alleges that after the Westinghouse company had paid it $120,000 to apply on the contract for rifle barrels the contract was canceled and that it thereby lost $813,000.

FATE OF CHADWICK STILL IN DOUBT

An official report from the commanding officer of the squadron with which Oliver M. Chadwick of this city was connected still leaves his fate a matter of uncertainty. The report is as follows:

Corp. Oliver Chadwick, after having passed with great facility and speed his commission as pilot at the Aerodrome of Pau, and followed a course of aerial shooting at the School of Cazaux arrived at Air Squadron N. 73 on July 29, 1917, from the C.I.T. His notes were excellent and he gave promise of becoming very rapidly a brilliant fighting pilot (Pilote de Chasse). Full of ardor, at the same time serious and cool headed, Chadwick immediately on arrival set to work to know thoroughly the sector in which his squadron was destined to operate. He wished to avail of every element of success. After a few trial flights on Spad machines, he took part with his comrades in the fighting patrols and was at once singled out for his cleverness and courage as a pilot.

On Aug. 14 he started out at 9 a. m. with four of his comrades. This patrol, at about 9.45, in the region southwest of the forest of Houshulst, delivered battle against a hostile squadron. An English patrol also took part in the fray. During the battle, Chadwick, seeing an English aerolite attacked by an Albatros, rushed to the rescue. At the same moment he himself was attacked by two Albatros who fired at him from behind and undoubtedly hit him. At this very instant his machine in fact was seen to drop to the ground under no control whatsoever. It fell close by the Camo farm, 1200 metres north of the village of Bixschoute.

The French lines then completed the last houses north of Bixschoute, and the machine fell exactly between the two lines (no man's land). The machine was found intact.

My wife, Millie L. Buxton, having left my bed and board, I will not be responsible for any bills she may contract hereafter. Sept. 11, 1917.

GEORGE E. BUNTON.

ment it touched the ground, both French and Germans jumped simultaneously from their trenches, and a sharp skirmish took place around the Spad, but without result, both parties being obliged to regain their lines. Two or three days after a new French attack carried their line ahead, just to the very spot where Chadwick's machine fell. The Spad was then found intact, with the corpse of a German soldier alongside, but no trace whatever of Pilot Chadwick. It is therefore possible that he was killed by a shot during the combat in the air. It is also possible that he was only wounded and that the enemy was able to make him prisoner. I am quite unable to give any absolute decision on this point. The above information has been gathered from the infantry corps who assisted at the combat and took part in the attack.

Signed,
Officer Commanding Squadron N. 75, Aug. 25, 1917.

TOLD WAR LIKELY TO END IN 90 DAYS

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—"I have been told at Washington by army and navy officers that the war is likely to end within 90 days," said Mayor Curry yesterday at the luncheon given in his honor at the Copley-Plaza by the officers of the British-Canadian recruiting mission.

"But I fear that it is not, and I agree that we must go ahead with the idea that the war is to be a long one. I am going to devote every second I can spare to aid you in carrying on your work."

The mayor also stated that he is satisfied from information coming to him from Washington that within the next 60 days the allied nations will be permitted to draft all their citizens now residing in the United States and eligible for military service. The machinery of the British and Canadian governments is all ready to begin this work, he said.

It was announced by Lieut. Col. John S. Dennis, in charge of the New England district of the recruiting mission, that a platoon of the Fifth Royal Scots of Canada and two bands will arrive in Boston within two weeks to take part in the vigorous campaign to encourage voluntary enlistments.

Through their efforts and with the aid of the mayor, who has promised to assign Grand Army men and Spanish war veterans employed by the city to work with the recruiting officers, and who will personally appear at dozens of recruiting rallies in various sections of Greater Boston, Col. Dennis believes that within the next month fully 6,000 men will have been forwarded to the army depots in Canada and England.

Of the 25 men accepted for service yesterday, 12 volunteered after hearing the speakers in front of the British-Canadian tent on the common.

Housewives of this city now look forward to Biddy Bye's tips on cooking and culinary art which appear each week in the Sunday Supplement of The Sun, published each Saturday.

Most Old People Are Constipated

The wear of years impairs the action of the bowels. As people grow older they restrict their activity, neglect to take sufficient exercise, and indulge a natural disposition to take things easy. The digestive organs become more sensitive to the demands made upon them and rebel more quickly.

It is of special importance to the health of elderly people that the bowels be kept normally active. A mild, yet effective, remedy for constipation, and one that is especially suited to the needs of old folks, women and children, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It costs only fifty cents a bottle, and should be in every family medicine chest. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

OFFICE HOUSE

One of the best bits of character thus far shown by any member of the Emerson Players at the Opera House is the portrayal this week of the rich and influential brewer by Robert R. Lawrence in "Hit the Trail Holiday." In all of his stage creations, George St. John seems to get closer to real life than any of the other big producers. In his selections of characters he very seldom creates them, but rather picks them up from every day life and presents them just as they are. And in so doing he has contributed very materially to his many successful productions. In "Hit the Trail Holiday," the role of "Rex Granger," in just such a character as one is wont to find in many of the small villages and towns of the east, he is the kind that uses his influence and wealth to run things to his own liking and woe to those who dare oppose him. Mr. Lawrence's treatment of the part is praiseworthy and is winning him many new friends. As the successful, disgruntled boss who fights any way to win, he is especially good. While Charles Crombie, in the character of the pampered son who talks much but acts very little, is also commendable.

Next week the attraction will be "The Ward Childs Carpenter's big success 'The Cinderella Man.'" In "The Cinderella Man," the role of "Tommy" is played by Charles Crombie and promises to make a pronounced hit. Capital Western will produce it with a full cast and all of the essential that make it successful. Tickets now selling. Tel. 261.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The big audience at the Academy last night went with "The Night at the Carnival." Many witty interpretations tions of their various characters and the big chorus in natty, new and varied costumes quickly won favor. Many new and catchy songs were rendered and thunderous outbursts of applause forced continual encores of the musical numbers rendered.

"A Night at the Carnival," the present bill, is by far the best laughing comedy novelty presented at this popular theatre for a long while and bids fair to attract large crowds as a result. Gorman's Merry-makers will remain over for the second week, offering two new jingling comedy successes, with special matinees daily for ladies and children.

RECORD BEAN CROP, BUT PRICE JUMPS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Beans take their place this year as one of the country's most important and valuable crops. Forecast of production in the five important bean-growing states—Michigan, California, New York, Colorado and New Mexico—announced by the department of agriculture yesterday in a special report show 13,950,000 bushels, compared with 13,650,000 bushels last year and 10,321,000 bushels in 1915. More than 1,500,000 acres were planted to beans in those states, and the average farm price being paid for them on Aug. 15 was $7.34 a bushel, compared with $4.60 on that date last year. At the Aug. 15 price the prospective crop was worth about $165,000,000. No estimate was made for the production in other states.

MILITARY NOTES

The following men were sent from the local naval recruiting station this morning to Boston for enlistment: Owen E. Cox, 4 Batchelder place and David Gordon, 32 Broadway. Both men shipped as machinist's mates. They had been employed at the U. S. Corbridge Co.

Alfred Leavitt of Fall River and William B. Wiggin of 1019 Middlesex street left Lowell this morning as members of the engineer corps, National army. They were accepted through the local regular army office in Central street. Frank Dulaga of 3 Fay street has been accepted for the infantry of the regular army and will leave this city tomorrow.

Co. 57 of the State guard held its regular drill at the armory last evening. A large number of drafted men were on hand to receive instruction in military drill.

Dr. William F. Ryan has received orders to report to Fort Ethan Allen in Vermont as soon as possible. The doctor received a commission of first lieutenant in the medical corps about a month ago. He will leave for his new post within a few days.

The committee on public safety of Billerica has appointed a local committee to keep in touch with the whereabouts of the soldiers. Gov. McCall has established a soldiers' information bureau at the state house and from this information concerning every enlisted man of the state may be obtained. The Billerica committee will meet this evening in the town hall.

SLIGHTLY BURNED

Emile Leclaire residing in Rogers street was slightly burned about the right arm while at work at the Newton Mfg. Co. early this morning. The ambulance was called and he was taken to St. John's hospital where he received treatment.

BERLIN, Sept. 14, via London.—German "shock" troops yesterday penetrated as far as the second French line west of Guignicourt, on the Aisne front, and inflicted heavy losses on the defenders, according to the official statement issued today by the German war office.

In Flanders the artillery battle increased to drum-fire, the announcement adds, but no English attack developed.

The general staff reports that on the night of Sept. 12-13 the British were driven from the wooded section north of Langemarck, on the Belgian front, and that numerous Englishmen were taken prisoners.

COTTON CONSUMPTION DURING MONTH OF AUGUST WAS 569,351 BALES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Cotton consumption during August was 569,351 bales compared with 557,780, a year ago. Cotton on hand Aug. 31 in consuming establishments was 1,178,803 bales compared with 1,363,135 bales a year ago, and in public storage and at compresses 744,069 compared with 917,578 a year ago.

Cotton spindles active during August numbered 33,430,016 compared with 32,392,103 a year ago.

CAR SERVICE OVER THE BRIDGE MONDAY

If everything goes well it is expected that electric car traffic over the new Pawtucket bridge will be resumed Monday. The temporary tracks over the bridge have been laid, while the tracks have also been extended to Varnum avenue. There remains to be tracked a short distance along Mammoth road and it is expected this work will be completed for Monday at which time the fall schedule of the Bay State Street Railway company will go into effect. The scarcity of help, it is said, is responsible for the delay, for the company hoped to resume traffic about ten days after work was started.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Representatives of 100,000 organized milk producers accepted today a proposal by the food administration that they make only month-to-month contracts with distributors pending a promised reduction in the prices of cattle feed. Semi-annual contracts will expire in a short time.

Food administration officials believe that stabilized grain prices and limited profits for millers will cut feed prices before Jan. 1.

Milo D. Campbell, president of the National Milk Producers' Federation said today there was little doubt that dairymen would approve the monthly contract plan.

STRIKE IN PACKING HOUSES SETTLED

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 14.—The general strike of the packing house employees was ended late yesterday afternoon when the strikers accepted a proposal outlined by Patrick C. Gill, federal mediator, which had been previously agreed to by the packers. The men returned to work at 7 o'clock this morning.

The employees were awarded recognition of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers of North America. The agreement was signed by each of the heads of the packing houses and also by Mr. Gill.

The agreement included a 3-1-2-cent an hour increase in wages, recognition of the organization, permission to advocate the principles of union labor as laid down by the American Federation of Labor, reinstatement of strikers, hiring of all employees by a centralized employment bureau, the right of discharged men to appeal to the superintendent and the right of employees to send grievance committees to the employers.

The Sunday Supplement of The Sun published every Saturday contains a red-hot sporting page contributed to by leading sporting writers of the country.

HOLD UP SHIPMENT TO SWEDEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Accidental discovery that wire nails in a consignment for Sweden were covered with lead caps caused the custom authorities today to hold up a shipment of 200 cases of the nails. The smashing of one of the cases by a passing truck on a Brooklyn pier led to the discovery. It was said there was enough lead on each nail for the manufacture of a rifle bullet and that the application for shipping license contained no mention of the lead, simply stating that the cases contained wire nails. The cases have been standing on the pier for about three weeks. The investigation will seek to determine whether the lead was placed on the nails as a subterfuge to get the needed war material to Germany or whether it was there for some legitimate purpose. The lead caps are described as fitting loosely and easily removable.

PUNISHMENT OF GENERAL KORNILOFF

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Gen. Korniloff's punishment seems one of the points concerned in the formation of a new Russian cabinet. Unofficial reports reaching here today indicated that Premier Kerensky was determined to inflict a heavy penalty as a warning against future uprisings, but certain elements of the constitutional democrats, and even many leaders of the council of workmen's and soldiers' delegates, Kerensky's closest political friends advocate leniency.

It is considered probable that one early move of the new government may be to abolish the duma, which has given some evidence of favoring a return to the monarchy and has opposed many democratic reforms of the revolution. The Maximilists or Bolsheviks, a radical anarchistic group, probably will continue to receive governmental recognition.

INSURANCE BILL LAW BEFORE ADJOURNMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Plans for adjourning congress without senate action on the soldiers' and sailors' insurance bill, were much disarranged today by an unauthorized announcement that President Wilson would insist that the measure become law before congress quits. There is strong sentiment in the senate for closing up business and letting the bill wait for the December session. The question will be taken up with the president when he returns from his yachting trip.

"SPURLOS VERSENKT"

Day by day the proof of German ruthlessness, German mendacity, German outlaws, grows. Day by day the indictment against Kaiserdom mounts and mounts, until all the world—except Germany—is appalled. Drop for the moment their barbarous cruelties in wantonly and purposefully bombing hospitals, which hitherto have been held immune even by the masks have been torn from the faces of the German diplomatic lars in the past few months—in each case through American instrumentalities.

Our own state department revealed that while we were still at peace with Germany, Prussian intrigues were trying to bribe Mexico and Japan to wage war on us. Caught with the goods, the Germans cynically avowed that it was perfectly proper in time of peace to prepare for war against a friendly power by seeking to enmesh it in the toils.

In the past few days an American newspaperman, working in Russia, has revealed the telegrams exchanged between Kaiser "Wilhelm" and "Nicky." In these, Wilhelm Hohenzollern, who has constantly and lyingly tried to shift his own blood-guilt to others by averring that other nations started the war, was revealed as striving for a temporary alliance between Germany, Russia and France, whose object was to isolate Great Britain and make that country an easier prey for the war Germany desired to make upon her. That object achieved, the turn of France, of Russia and of America would have come later—if they stood in the path of German ambitions. Again and again German apologists have attempted an alibi as to the reasons that impelled them to violate the neutrality of little Belgium. But in these telegrams the Kaiser was revealed frankly stating to the czar that in case of war between Germany and Britain, he would invade and seize Denmark if it became necessary for his objects.

And in the past few days, once more due to our own state department, has come another revelation of German methods and of German barbarity. The German charge at Buenos Aires, knowing he could not send cables to Germany over his own signature, sent them through the medium of the Swedish minister to Argentina.

The crime is both Swedish and German. The excuses so far offered by the Swedes show the extent to which they are non-plussed by the sweeping revelation. It was a flagrant breach of neutrality, that definitely places Sweden as an ally of Germany.

But the graver crime is that of Germany. That country had a dispute with Argentina about the sinking of the latter's ships. While the two nations were at peace, while Count Luxemburg, Germany's minister, was the guest of the Argentine people, he was recommending that in the future, if Germany wanted to sink Argentine vessels, they be "tracelessly sunk"—"spurlos versenkt."

That can mean only one thing; not only blow up the vessels, but kill the crews, so the disappearance of the ships will forever remain a mystery. Nothing more cruel, more cold-blooded, has been revealed even about Germany.

Just as Bethmann-Hollweg's contemptuous reference to the treaty with Belgium as "a mere scrap of paper" will always be a blot upon Germany, so will Count Luxemburg's dastardly policy of "spurlos versenkt."

Such things as these can never be excused, can never be palliated, can never be forgotten. The Luxemburg policy is not only a policy of murder; it is a policy of murder by stealth and by night. It is the policy of a nation that assassinates and seeks to hide the evidences of its crimes, so that it may not be arraigned before the bar of international justice.

THE STOCK MARKET

Stock prices have tumbled lately. But they haven't tumbled far enough to produce anything resembling a "panic," and they are not likely to.

The spectacular drop in many standard securities has been due partly to the activity of a group of Wall street wreckers—more respectably known as "bears"—and partly to the sincere fear of many investors that the taxing of war profits is going to make their holdings unprofitable.

The work of the wreckers and of the timorous investors alike has had a good effect. Stock values were dangerously inflated. Now that some of the fictitious or accidental value has been squeezed out of them we're getting on a safer basis. The period of readjustment of prices and credits is difficult, but is doesn't last long, and it leaves our finance, industry and commerce more stable.

Congress is not going to take all the war profits, as so many capitalists have feared. It is clipping the wings of the biggest profiteers, but no more than it should in fairness to the general public, and not enough to put any serious obstacle in the way of legitimate business development. Profits as well as patriotism remain to inspire our captains of industry to do their best.

And the country's economic situation is fundamentally as sound as a rock. We have enormous crops, sufficient for all our needs and those of our allies. Our transportation difficulties have been largely cleared away. Our people have employment at record wages. Our industries are working at full blast, under the spur of huge war orders, and great public purchasing power.

Many manufacturers profess to see danger in the arbitrary lowering of prices for war supplies. That procedure merely prevents certain groups of capitalists from piling up undeserved fortunes. The general effect is excellent. Our government and our allies are enabled to save large sums in their purchases, thereby conserving their resources and strengthening their credit. That improves the whole economic situation.

HETTY DIDN'T SPECULATE

The methods of increasing her wealth employed by the late Hetty Green have been coming out plainly in court of late, as the state appraiser of New York makes decisions as to the taxation of her estate.

Mrs. Green's son, who took care of much of her business, stated on the stand: "Mrs. Green's business activities consisted in the investing and reinvesting of her principal and income and the care and conservation of her investments. She never speculated or bought to sell. She was extremely cautious in making investments, and what she bought she ordinarily retained. For the most part she invested in bonds secured by mortgages or other interest-bearing or dividend-paying securities."

Hetty didn't speculate. She didn't buy to sell. Needless to say, she did not buy on margin. She did not buy stocks of which she knew nothing. She didn't play the market to get something for nothing. Her money was used where it was needed.

And come to think of it, did any great fortune made on the market ever last? Not one of the big American fortunes was based upon a gamble. They were founded on a vision of service. Every man who has made big money—really big money—has seen before him a need of mankind which the future would increase, and he has set himself to be ready to satisfy that need. Furs, land, sugar, meat, gasoline, transportation—there is not one of the great fortunes which does not answer to this analysis.

Some of the methods employed by some of these men and institutions are more than open to question. But the basic fact at the root of all money-making is service.

Haverhill Has a Scandal

The grand jury of Essex county, after a probe of municipal affairs, has found an indictment against Alderman Wood for alleged malfeasance, while in charge of the street department. Mr. Wood had been mayor for five years previous to the adoption of the commission form of government. It is alleged that he sold horses to the city in violation of the statutes and approved bills which were "illegal."

The situation in reference to the commission form of government in

Haverhill is much the same as in Lowell. The commission is too small, too expensive and too difficult to dislodge. In their present state of mind the people think a city manager will give relief, but this is but another fad from the west that will prove as much of a disappointment as did "the commission of five men who were to sit down as would the directors of a bank and in quiet conference conduct the city's business with wisdom and despatch." Oh! what an awakening when the commission conference is found to be a three by two squabble all the year round with personal interests always paramount.

FIX THE PRICE OF BREAD

Mr. Hoover has been talking of bringing down the prices of food but very few have been able to detect where any of his predictions have been made good. He now has fixed the price of wheat and there should be a basis of fixing the price of the one pound loaf of bread. Mr. Hoover says six cents would be enough for it. We'll take it at that figure Mr. Hoover. Now go ahead and do the necessary fixing. There is no single thing on which there is more need of a fixed price than on the matter of bread and particularly the sixteen ounce loaf. At the present time the price ranges from ten to twelve cents or more, according to the baker who sells it.

The Germans have made a good beginning in their Russian advance, by crossing the river Aa. But they've got a lot of alphabetical and geographical obstacles to overcome before they get to the Zz.

SEEN AND HEARD

Shoes are soaring higher, in price and otherwise.

How anxious the children are to get the first new lesson in school!

The preserve closet will be shy on tomatoes at $2.50 per bushel.

Straw hats have been called in. Trade off the old for new felts.

'Tis easy to see there are more than "old maids" knitting nowadays.

Jack Frost raises the price of corn in Chicago and tomatoes in Lowell.

Jack Frost called earlier than usual this year and played havoc with the tomato crop.

Some people are said to have faults while others are merely troubled with idiosyncrasies.

Many farmers refuse to cut their hay because they cannot sell it. There are few horses now.

Heard in the car: "Were you cold in school yesterday, May? Yes, I was almost frozen, Ida."

Vacations which are being taken in September this year may be productive of more harm than good.

The man who continues to wear his straw hat after the cool weather comes on is not necessarily a hero—he may be broke.

One lesson which this war is going to teach us before we get through with it is that the individual doesn't amount to so much in the general scheme of things as he thought he did.—Ohio State Journal.

"What's that?" asked the visitor, indicating a gasometer.
"That's a can," replied the Scot.
"Some can, too," was the astonished rejoinder.

"Mamma," said a five-year-old boy the other day, "don't there any other tastes except hearing, seeing, feeling, tasting and smelling?"
"No, my child," answered the mother. "It is usually considered that these five are enough."

The Alien

An alien born, I cannot claim Full portion in your Stripes and Stars; I cannot share your storied fame, Nor reap the glory of your scars, I know no Father of the Land, No Lincoln come to set men free, For I am of an alien land, Yet crave to fight for liberty.

I know no dear and honored past, No heroes of the rugged years When lives were in the balance cast And victory came thro' blood and tears.
Across the sea-space I was born; An alien brother of the free— My heart leaps up to hail the morn When I can fight for liberty.

A scion of a war-cursed state Where might stalks by with clanking sword, I bent in terror and in hate— An atom in a servile horde; But at your welcome when I came Across the wide and restless sea, My soul leaped in me like a flame— I, too, would fight for liberty.

Oh, let me stand beside your sons To learn the duty of the hour, To face the foeman's deadly guns, And help to crush his cruel power. I crave to show the love I feel For you, my brothers of the free— You let me share your country's weal— Let me defend its liberty!

The Flag in France

By John S. McGroarty
The flag is in France with its silvery stars And the ripple and flame of its crimson bars, 'Mid the shot and shell of the wild advance, In the thrust of the day and the night's red scars, In the grin and shock and blood of the wars, And the hell and slaughter—the Flag's in France.

They are long-lost voices that called it there, With the roll of drums and the trumpet's blare, To the fields where the lilies with blood are wet— The fields of France that were once so fair.

The death-blancheted land of Rochambeau where With the dust of the lilies, lies Lafayette.

Look up, O dead, from the desolate vine, Awaken, O memories of Brandywine! Loved sister, near spent in the desperate throng, Look up to the sun where their sabers shine Who came with their flag to the battle line To pay the deep debt of the Long ago

Youth and its flower, O France, you gave— Now spirit for spirit, and grave for grave, We have sent our sons through the watchful sea To laugh at danger, and death to brave, To fight for Freedom, to succor and save— The flag is in France where it longed to be.

—From Los Angeles Times.

Woman Happiest at Forty

The happy, joyous age of woman-kind is not sweet sixteen, neither is it twenty-five nor thirty, but between the fourth and fifth millenniums of life, according to Mrs. Herbert J. Hurney, president of the State Federation of Women's clubs, says the Boston Post.

While many matrons giggled and some actually laughed outright, Mrs. Hurney explained the situation as follows:

"The right age for women is between forty and fifty," she said. "A woman of that age can talk to a man, and if he is a good man he doesn't think you are trying to flirt with him." Mrs. Hurney concluded by adding that "it is a good thing to be a good, middle-aged woman."

COLLEGE OPENING POSTPONED

WORCESTER, Sept. 14.—The opening of Clark college has been postponed from Sept. 19 to Sept. 26. The college authorities announced that this was due to the fact that many students are employed on farms and that many other have been drafted. After the next quota of drafted men has been sent to the cantonment at Ayer it will be possible to determine more definitely how many students will be able to resume their studies.

WHO KNOWS GEORGE MILES?

A Mrs. Buckley of 604 West avenue, Buffalo, N. Y., has written to The Sun asking that an effort be made to find one George Miles "whose father was a Unitarian minister." Mr. Miles is between 45 and 50 years old. There is no such name listed in the city directory and it is probable that the man is not in the city at the present time. No further information is given in the communication but anyone who knows anything of the man in question should notify Mrs. Buckley.

SUFFERED NINE YEARS

Many Remedies Tried in Vain. Well and Strong After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Spartanburg, S. C.—"For nine years I suffered from backache, weakness, and irregularities so I could hardly do my work. I tried many remedies but found no permanent relief. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt a great change for the better and am now well and strong so I have no trouble in doing my work."

I hope every user of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will get as great relief as I did from its use.—Mrs. S. D. McABBE, 122 Dewey Ave., Spartanburg, S. C.

The reason women write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved. This is a praiseworthy thing to do and such women should be highly commended.

MAKE UP OF NEW FRENCH CABINET

PARIS, Sept. 14.—The new French cabinet contains a new ministry at first called the ministry of propaganda, but later changed to minister of missions abroad. Owing to the absence of Franklin Drouillon, the new post is not listed with the other ministry designations in the Official Journal. The new ministry consists of 15 titular ministers, four ministers of state and eleven under-secretaries. The new ministers are divided among five senators, eleven deputies and two, Louis Louchet and Albert Clavell, do not belong to parliament. The eleven under-secretaries are all members of the chamber of deputies. Sixteen of the new cabinet members have been ministers or under-secretaries in previous cabinets and three are former premiers. The political groups represented in the new ministry do not include the united socialists. Premier Painleve represents the socialist-republican group, while the socialist-radicals have three members, the radical left three, the republican union of the senate two, the republicans of the left one, and the radical republic union seven members. Seven members of the Ribot ministry retain places in the new cabinet. The most noted members of the Ribot ministry to go are Rene Viviani and Albert Thomas.

In the new ministry, Urof. Paul Painleve in addition to becoming premier will continue to act as minister of war. The other assignments follow: Foreign affairs—Alexander Ribot; justice, Raoul Peret; interior, Jules Siegel; marine, Charles Chaumet; munitions, Louis Louchet; finance, Louis Lucien Klotz; colonies, Rene Besnard; transports, Albert Clavell; education, Daniel Vincent; labor, Andre Renard; commerce, Etienne Clementel; agriculture, Ferdinand David; provisions, Maurice Long; for missions abroad, Franklin Drouillon. Four ministers of state who are also members of the war council are Louis Barthou, Leon Bourgeois, Paul Doumer and Jean Dupuy.

AUSTRIA - HUNGARY IN FATIGUE NEARLY OVERCOMES WOMAN

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—The Freie Zeitung of Berne publishes an article from a high Austrian official, who recently traveled through several sections of his country, in which the writer states that Austria-Hungary cannot hold out the coming winter, owing to economic reasons, as both soldiers and civilians will be starved. He gives several reasons, notably the almost complete destruction of the crops in the richest regions of Hungary by the cold and the heavy rain, while 300,000 tons of human cereal could not be transported owing to lack of rolling stock, which, first of all, is utilized for military purposes. In the meantime, he says, the necessities of life are mounting to extraordinary prices.

Hungary with Germany
AMSTERDAM, Sept. 14.—Dr. Alexander Wekerle, the Hungarian premier, expounded the government's program for the coming winter, but also said the foreign policy remained entirely unchanged, said the premier.

"The foundation stones of our foreign policy," continued Dr. Wekerle, "are our allegiance to our allies and co-operation with them in all respects. We are united with the Hungarian chamber, which was thrust upon us, but also as to its final aim, namely the harmonious joint conclusion of a suitable, lasting peace."

"We were first, in agreement with the German empire, openly to express our entire readiness to conclude such a peace. This readiness of ours was solemnly confirmed by the peace resolution of the German reichstag. We even gave a broad outline of the conditions of an understanding by declaring that our peace policy is not aimed at any conquests whatever, that we oppose an economic war between the nations, and that we are striving for a suitable, lasting peace which will not be detrimental to our interests, and to avoid the recurrence of war. We even consider it desirable that brute force of arms in international relationships should be replaced by moral empire of right. We recently also accorded grateful recognition of the Holy Father's efforts which have this aim in view."

"Our extreme necessities can naturally only meet with success if it meets with desirable recognition in the enemy's camp. Failing this recognition, we will wage war to the utmost, conscious of our strength and with our resolution fortified by the recent successes of our troops, thereby securing in the future not only our interests but also the blessings of a lasting peace and a mutual understanding."

Gen. Kerensky, told the Associated Press today that "the situation shows steady improvement." Continuing, he said: "Gen. Korniloff has not surrendered but he is quite prepared to do so and is in a position of complete powerlessness. We have just received an offer of surrender from 12 companies of Korniloff troops who say they have been deceived and Gen. Kaledines, who, with his Don Cossacks began a menacing movement against the government, has been checked. We expect that he soon will be taken."

A Petrograd despatch to Reuter's Limited dated Sept. 14, announced the arrest at Rostov of Gen. Kaledines.

Korniloff Agrees to Surrender
PETROGRAD, Sept. 13.—Gen. Korniloff has communicated to the government his intention to surrender on the arrival of Gen. Alexieff, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies at Moulavay at which place he is due this evening.

Gen. Krymoff Arrested
PETROGRAD, Sept. 13.—Further evidence of defection in the ranks of the Cossacks from Gen. Korniloff is given by the arrest near Lugsa of Gen. Krymoff. The council of soldiers and workers' delegates sent a deputation to whereupon the Cossacks declared that they were ready to arrest their commander provided an order was received from Premier Kerensky. The council ordered Gen. Krymoff's arrest. He submitted without resistance and was brought to Petrograd. The Cossacks of his command have joined the government forces. The Lugsa garrison, Railway service between Lugsa and Petrograd has been resumed.

Normal Conditions in Russia
PETROGRAD, Sept. 13, 7 p. m.—Although the revolt can be considered formally ended only after the announcement that Gen. Korniloff, the leader, has actually surrendered, the capital and country already show signs of recovering their composure and are attempting a new process of reconstruction.

The provisional government activity is taking necessary measures to restore the interrupted economic and social life and although the fundamental difficulties inspired Gen. Korniloff's adventure remain, hopes are expressed that the cabinet which is now under reconstruction, will, in future, show greater vigor and decision.

Last night the director of communications, M. Lizerovsky, was able to announce that railroad communication had been restored on the Warsaw-Vindava line, the government must render reasonable satisfaction to the conservative demands and resist any pressure to move it towards the left.

Petrograd Calm
Petrograd has entirely recovered its calm, a remarkable effect of the suppression of the revolt being that the panic rush from the capital, caused by the fall of the Baltic port of Riga, has ceased, and the railroad stations have recovered their normal appearance. On the bourse, where only private deals are transacted, there was a sharp rise in securities.

From Moscow it is reported that refugees have begun returning to Petrograd. Doubtful elements in the provinces who certainly would have backed Gen. Korniloff had he succeeded in his revolt are passing resolutions in support of the provisional government and in condemnation of the revolt.

Take Lesson from Revolt
The new cabinet is rapidly progressing towards completion, though friction again has arisen between the constitutional democrats and the socialists. The constitutional democrats at a meeting last night announced to Premier Kerensky that the government must take a lesson from Gen. Korniloff's revolt by removing the causes and not repeating the mistakes which caused it. Otherwise, they said, Gen. Korniloff's adventure would be repeated by someone else.

Revolt Caused by Dissatisfaction
The revolt, declared the constitutional democrats, undoubtedly was the fruit of extreme dissatisfaction existing in the more conservative classes. Therefore, the government must render reasonable satisfaction to the conservative demands and resist any pressure to move it towards the left.

Premier Kerensky today issued an order giving to the military governor of Petrograd, who temporarily is Gen. A. P. Pavlovsky, special powers with regard to the press.

The evening newspapers declare that Premier Kerensky reproached the constitutional democrats for their passive attitude so long as Gen. Korniloff seemed to have a chance of success. The premier has commissioned M. Kishkine to negotiate with the Moscow industrial circles for their support of the government and, if possible, the entry of business men into the cabinet. If this plan succeeds the cabinet undoubtedly will be much strengthened and the bad results of the revolt may speedily be remedied.

Quit Russian Cabinet
LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Petrograd correspondent of Reuter's Limited states that Vice Premier Nekrasoff has informed the press that he and M. Terestchenko, minister of foreign affairs, have decided to leave their posts in the cabinet, considering that their participation in the government narrowed their political horizon, and, being only business ministers without party support, they did not possess sufficient strength in the cabinet. The vice premier also announced the withdrawal from the cabinet of M. Pieschennoff, minister of food and supplies.

Investigate Rebellion
PETROGRAD, Sept. 14.—The provisional government, according to the Russian official news agency, has sent an extraordinary special commission to the Russian army headquarters in the field to investigate the Korniloff affair.

PROF. OLNEY SPOKE
BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Discovery of a new treatment of sawdust waste whereby it could be converted into charcoal which would enable sugar planters to put on the market a sugar equal in color to the ordinary product and at a somewhat lower price, was

FIND AGED WOMAN DEAD SISTER UNCONSCIOUS

FALL RIVER, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Robert Dunning, 80 years old, and widow of Robert Dunning, a painter, was found dead in bed early today at the home of her sister, Dr. Lucy C. Hill, a practicing physician, who was unconscious in a room on a lower floor when the body was found near her bed. There were no marks on Mrs. Dunning's body but because of circumstances surrounding her death and the condition of Dr. Hill, Medical Examiner Thomas F. Gunning, arranged to perform an autopsy while the police began an investigation on the strength of information furnished by officers who answered the first call for assistance from the home. The exact nature of this report the police would not reveal.

Mrs. Dunning's body was found by Jessie Malcolm, a maid, who was alarmed by the strong odor of gas which filled the house when she went there this morning. Failing to arouse Dr. Hill the maid raced upstairs to see if Mrs. Dunning had been overcome and discovered the body. When the police report stated that she had died of asphyxiation, but this later was corrected by physicians, who said there was not a particle of gas in the room.

Dr. Hill is two years older than her sister. When removed to a hospital, physicians said that she had been poisoned by a few hours later she rallied somewhat and police inspectors were sent to the hospital to question her. Notwithstanding her age, Dr. Hill is strong and vigorous, and while her practice in recent years was limited to patients of many years, she always responded to calls, day and night.

The maid told the police that when she left last night Mrs. Dunning was in Dr. Hill's office and that they were apparently in a happy frame of mind.

THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—An active demand for stocks caused a sharp upturn early today. The low level reached and the selling movement of the last few days brought in, buying orders in considerable volume. The strength of the market and the initial transactions resulted in an urgent inquiry from the shorts and the opening gains were extended rapidly. U. S. Steel opened a block of 60,000 shares at 107 1/2, a maximum gain of a point. Advances of 1 to 2 points were made in steels, coppers, General Motors, Reading, Delaware & Hudson and Tobacco Products. Texas Co., and Barret gained three points.

Technical conditions were favorable for a rise, as the market gave indications of being speculatively sold out. The liquidating movement in investment shares and popular specialties having been checked, operations for the long term were conducted aggressively and early gains were extended. The return for the better in the Russian situation, which caused a rise in rubles to 107 1/2, compared with the recent low level of 112 1/2 and indications of outside buying, were the primary stimulating influences. Bonds were firm. Liberty bonds sold at 99 1/4 to 99 3/8.

Commission house buying was in greatly increased volume today and there were signs that speculative needs were again at work. Trading was quieter after mid-day but individual shares made further notable headway. Liberty bonds advanced to 99 1/4. Selling orders predominated in the final hour, when general realizing set in. Bethlehem Steel and U. S. Steel reacted sharply and some stocks lost a good deal of their early gains. The market closed easy.

PERFECTION OF WAR TAX BILL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Preliminary steps toward final perfection of the war tax bill were taken today when senate and house conferees on the measure met to thrash out their differences, which are chiefly over the war profits income, postage and inheritance sections. It is hoped to complete the work inside of a week after which the bill will go to the president for approval.

Demands of the house conferees probably will include revision of the pre-war graduated profits system and rates on "swollen" profits and big incomes; elimination of the senate's complex post stamp tax; and possibly revision of the second class postage increase.

The senate's bill, it now is estimated, will bring in revenue to the amount of $2,416,670,000, as compared with $1,858,920,000 by the house bill. This calculation is based on revised official figures presented to the conferees today.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no loss of time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation. If you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 1953 Marcellus avenue, Manassas, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured. Many have saved a life or at least lost the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

ators will advise him of legislative conditions.
Meanwhile the $11,000,000,000 bond bill, the conference over the war revenue tax measure and half a dozen odds and ends that can be speedily disposed of will wait upon the result of the White House conference.
The president is very anxious to have the soldiers' insurance bill, which is one of the most important ventures ever contemplated by any government, passed without delay. In the senate there is a disposition to indulge in unlimited debate over some of its provisions.
If the president insists, the bill will be passed without further loss of time. All of the congressional plans for an adjournment by Oct. 1 will be remodeled, and the session will run along to pretty nearly the time for it to meet again in regular session.
Despite the president's anxiety for the soldiers' insurance legislation, the impression prevails among the leaders of the upper house that the bill will go over the top in the senate by Oct. 1.
The $11,000,000,000 bond bill was reported to the senate yesterday by Senator Stone, who signified his intention of recommending its passage for immediate passage. If the president agrees to let the insurance bill go over, the bond bill can be disposed of in two or three days. Otherwise it will be placed on the regular calendar to await the mood of the senate.
The war revenue bill can be disposed of in three or four days, after the conference committee report.
